Tentative County Budget for Coming Year Set at $1,837,687

HIGHER THAN LAST YEAR'S BY $112,000

Increase Said Due to Larger Welfare and Hospital Costs

RESERVE IS PLANNED

Aug. 20 Date Set By Supervisors for Public Hearing

The tentative Orange county budget for the fiscal year 1935-36 was set at $1,837,687 last night by the board of supervisors. This figure, said John C. Mitchell, chairman of the board, is approximately $112,000 higher than last year's budget. This tentative figure provides for expenditures totalling $1,737,687 and a $100,000 reserve.

The tentative budget was arrived at late last night after board members had spent several hours considering requests of departmental heads. Plans are being completed today for publication of the tentative list and for the formal public budget hearing scheduled for 10 a. m. on August 20. The hearing will be held in the board room.

Increase For Welfare

In announcing the tentative budget, Chairman Mitchell said all increases were reflected in the welfare and hospital departments and were for services that are mandatory on the board. Allowances for other departments are on a parity with those of last year, and in some cases are lower.

The tentative allowance for welfare needs during 1935-36 is $488,095 as compared to $329,906 in 1934-35. In announcing the amount allowed for welfare work, Chairman Mitchell said that when the budget was approved for last year there was $300,000 available for relief work, this money being Orange county's share of the $20,000,000 state relief bond issue. This money is not available this year and an increased charity burden will have to be financed through local taxation.

Liberalization of eligibility rules for benefits under the old age relief plan of the state has materially increased demands that will be made on the county treasury, as has the return of "unemployables" to the county rolls from federal aid

Negro on Relief Has Poor 'Pickins' After Wife, Dogs

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Aug. 7. (AP)—A tall Negro, sprawling his lean legs on the Wyandotte county courthouse steps, gave his own version of the "relief situation."

"All I'se got at home is a wife an' two dogs," he drawled while sitting among several hundred "strikers" protesting a work relief cut.

"Fust she feeds herse'f. Then she feeds the dogs. After that there ain't nuthin' left for me."

EDWARDS NOT CANDIDATE

State Senator Decides Against Seeking Post Again; Craig Backed

State Senator Nelson T. Edwards of Orange will not be a candidate for re-election. This fact was made known in a conversation with Mr. Edwards today.

"It may be too early for any such announcement," Senator Edwards said, "but it is a fact, I do not intend to run for re-election. I don't know who will run for the place. However, it seems to me that our present speaker of the house, Ted Craig, would be the most likely candidate."

Senator Edwards said that in conversations with Speaker Craig, the matter had been discussed, and he felt sure that the present speaker was considering the possibility of running for the senatorial office. Speaker Craig, however, has not made up his mind one way or the other, Senator Edwards said. Mr. Craig has served in the state assembly for several terms, first, when the entire county was an assembly district, and more recently while the county has had two assemblymen.

During the past few months, various friends of Mr. Craig have suggested the possibility of entering him in the race for lieutenant governor. It has become apparent that Mr. Craig is well liked and respected throughout the state, and many feel that he would stand an exceedingly good chance of winning the race.

HUSBAND KILLS WIFE, SELF

VENTURA, Aug. 7 (AP)—An inquest date was to be set today into the deaths of James Hogan, 25, and his estranged wife, Lelo, 23, victims of what officers believe was a murder-suicide.

The couple had experienced marital differences for some time, climaxed when Mrs. Hogan went to Hollywood and secured employment in the home of a film cameraman.

Friends believed a reconciliation had been effected. Mr. and Mrs. Hogan were returning home when the shooting occurred.

Deputy Sheriff H. O. Waterman said Hogan apparently had killed his wife and then committed suicide. Shogun blasts had nearly several the heads of both victims.

RHODE ISLAND VOTE TURNS REPUBLICAN

New Deal Ignored at Special Election; G.O.P. Named

DEMOCRATS BEATEN

National Leaders Hail Victory as Omen of Evil for Bourbons

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 7. (AP) Rhode Island's first congressional district today turned its back on the New Deal, electing an anti-administration republican to the national house of representatives.

Charles F. Risk of Saylesville, a republican, who campaigned to the tune of "repudiate the administration's acts," was chosen at yesterday's special congressional election to succeed a democrat who walked into the seat at the last regular election with a plurality of 21,000.

He defeated State Treasurer Antonio Prince of Woonsocket, democratic supporter of the New Deal, which was the chief issue of a bitter campaign, by a plurality of more than 12,000.

The vote complete for the 112 election districts was: Risk (R), 48,023; Prince (D), 35,054.

In Rhode Island, political observers interpreted Risk's victory not only as a rebuke to President Roosevelt's policies, but also a sign of disapproval of the state democrats, who took control of Rhode Island last November for the first time.

Democratic chieftains had no comment.

Pawtucket elected a republican state representative in a district normally overwhelmingly democratic; East Providence elected a republican state senator by 1800 more votes than it did a year ago, and Newport elected its first republican mayor in almost 20 years.

STRIKERS DISROBE WOMEN

Dress Workers Stage Riot

DALLAS, Aug. 7. (AP)—Four women were disrobed and two others injured by striking women garment workers in a riot in front of two dress manufacturing plants here today.

Forty policemen, called to the scene when the rioting began, arrested 27 women and three men. The women fought the policemen and Patrolman George Cox was badly scratched.

The women injured, both workers and not strikers, were Nella Franklin, 35, and Jeannette Phillips.

The strikers gathered in front of the Lorch Manufacturing company and the Morten-Davis company as the women workers arrived for the day. As each appeared the strikers surged forward.

Police succeeded in rushing the stripped and injured women into the Lorch Manufacturing company.

The strike began six months ago.

Flying Ants—Millions of 'em—Harass English

LONDON, Aug. 7. (AP)—Millions of flying ants swooped down on London's suburbs today, swarming in gardens and streets.

They even held up a tennis tournament, descending on the courts in such a dense cloud that the players were forced to hasten for shelter.

Housewives brushed piles of ants from their doorsteps and worked—often in vain—to keep the ants out of their pantries and kitchens. The invasion was said to be the worst in 25 years.

CHEST TAKES ARMY BACK

Salvationists' Plea for Re-Admission Granted; Quota Is Raised

The Salvation Army was back in the Community Chest fold today. The Army returned with a $250 boost in the quota allotted it July 16, making its total $5750. Only July 16 the Army dropped out of the Chest ranks after failing to secure a quota of $6864.30.

Announcement of the return of the Army was made today by W. K. Hillyard, chairman of the board of directors of the Chest. He said the executive committee of the Chest yesterday afternoon accepted the Army's application to be included among other agencies which will participate in the forthcoming funds campaign.

The $250 increase in the Army's budget was accepted as a compromise, Mr. Hillyard said . The committee voted to boost budgets of other agencies in proportion, making the total to be asked $32,225.55 instead of $31,578.50.

Glenn O. Ereman of Los Angeles will act as director of the campaign, the committee decided yesterday. Mr. Everman has worked on similar projects at Los Angeles, Sacramento and Phoenix, Ariz. Last year he managed the Boy Scout fund campaign in Orange county. In connection with Mr. Everman's employment, Mr. Hillyard said expenses of the campaign will be approximately $650 less than had been anticipated.

The executive committee will recommend to the board of directors of the Chest that the budgets of the Boy Scouts and Y. W. C. A. be increased by $250 each and that the Y. M. C. A. allotment be boosted by $350.

TUMULTY IS CALLED!

Committeemen Accused by Former Cabinet Official on Stand

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—In a hearing, punctuated by frequent clashes, Patrick J. Hurley, Hoover secretry of war, testified to the senate lobby committee today his law firm had received $100,000 in the last three years from the Associated Gas and Electric system.

Explaining he represented the shareholders, he asserted:

"Ive never taken a case from anyone that was incompatible with the public welfare and these shareholders have a constitutional right to my services."

'All Prosecutors'

During one of the frequent altercations with committee members, the outspoken Hurley shouted:

"Oh, yes, you gentlemen are all prosecutors."

Frequently he accused committeemen of "putting words in my mouth" and at one point inquired sarcastically why he was not asked if he had quit beating his wife.

"I am a gold fish in a bowl," he shouted another time. "You can see me from any angle."

Hurley said he received $50,000 for appearing before the senate banking committee year before last, $25,000 the following year for representing Associated before the trade commission and in other matters, and $25,000 this year

SHIP FIRE OUT AFTER 5 HRS.

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 7. (AP)—A fire in the engine room of the recently launched U. S. S. Quincy was extinguished early today after a five-hour battle.

The deck plates of the cruiser were so hot that officials were unable to go below to determine the extent of damage.

The 10,000-ton cruiser lay at a dock at the Fore River ship yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, where she was being prepared for her trial run. The fire was believed to have started in the switchboard of the main cable room.

COLD STORAGE FOR MAN!

Freezing Trick Is Feasible

BERKELEY, Aug. 7. (AP)—The day may come soon, when the man who wants to see what the world is like a hundred years from now may do so by simply going into a scientific laboratory, having himself frozen solid and put away with a tag indicating when he wishes to be thawed back to life.

This interesting possibility was discussed here today by Dr. Robert E. Cornish, Berkeley scientist, whose experiments last year in reviving dogs put to death clinically attracted wide attention.

Dr. Cornish commented enthusiastically on an experiment performed recently by Dr. Ralph Willard, Hollywood gland research specialist, in which a monkey was revived after being frozen stiff for three days.

Dr. Cornish said Dr. Willard's work "seems to be quite a remarkable achievement," and opened up great possibilities. "It has been known for years that you can take young fish, freeze them solid and then thaw them out, and they will recover entirely." Dr. Willard is the first to do it with warm blooded animals.

"This experiment makes it possible to take a man of, say 40 years of age, inject sodium citrate into his blood, freeze him and put him away for a thousand years, as long as he is kept frozen very cold to prevent any changes in the body. Then thaw him out and he would go on living."

He explained the sodium citrate was necessary to keep the blood from clotting.

Black Widow Spider Traps, Kills Mouse in Grim Fight Before Santa Ana Audience

Trapped by a Black Widow spider as it scuttled across the floor of Crawford's garage, 1732 West Fifth street, last night, a mouse lost a desperate battle for its life when it finally was hoisted into the spider's web and killed. When the spider had completed its task the mouse swung in the web, trussed like a pig for roasting.

The struggle started about 5 p. m. yesterday and for more than an hour the mouse fought a desperate but losing battle.

Employes of the garage said the spider had spun a web between the front spring and a wheel of an old automobile stored in the building. It apparently dropped down onto the mouse as the rodent scampered toward its hole. When first noticed the spider was hanging from its web, gripping the mouse's tail after having lifted its back legs from the floor by means of the web.

The mouse, attempting to break the spider's grip, clawed at the floor with its front paws and uttered terrified squeaks. For more than half an hour the spider hung on while the rodent exhausted itself in vain efforts to win freedom.

At last the spider succeeded in spinning a web around the

POST, ROGERS TAKE OFF

Pair Leave for Alaska; Flier's Wife Decides to Go by Boat

SEATTLE, Aug. 7 (AP)—Wiley Post and Will Rogers, airplane cronies, hopped from the Renton airport, 12 miles south of here at 9:15 a. m., today, presumably for Juneau, Alaska, with Mrs. Post making a last-minute decision not to fly with them as the trip "may be too strenuous."

Ahead of Post and his "hitch hiking" passenger, along the northern British Columbia coast and over southeastern Alaska, was rainy weather.

"The trip may be rather strenuous," Mrs. Post told airport attendants. "I expect to join Wiley, however, within a few days, going by boat."

Rogers, the gum-chewing comedian, who has never been in Alaska before, had more humorous remarks before the takeoff.

"We may have to stop and get a fish dinner at Ketchikan, before we get to Juneau," he said.

The flying distance to Juneau, the first hop of a flight which may see Post going on to Siberia and Moscow, while Rogers leaves him in Alaska, is between 950 and 1000 miles.

SHIFT SCHOOL PRESS PLAN

Jaysee Fine Arts Work to Continue Despite Printers' Protest

Santa Ana Junior college Fine Arts Press is to be continued on a basis that will maintain and add to the prestige it already has brought that institution without trampling on the toes of commercial printers.

Such was the substance of a decision reached last night by members of the board of education when the board considered protests of a group of printers who have been fearful lest the college printing department should extend its activities too far into the commercial field with a piant maintained by school funds.

President George R. Wells of the board of education said nearly $700 had been turned into the school treasury as a result of patronage attracted to the department by the unusual and artistic work of Thomas E. Williams, its head.

To Work Out Plan

Mr. Wells announced today that he had asked Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson to work out a plan whereby sponsors of books, who wish them printed by the Fints Arts Press, must first make application to the board of education, and at the same time advance sufficient money to finance publication of the works.

In a letter addressed to the board, Dr. Margarete Baker, who is a board member but is at present vacationing, expressed her belief that the amount of good done in publishing the various works of art by Mr. Williams far out-

Commanders are finding it difficult to restrain the aroused fighters, so intense is the war spirit. It was heightened further when reports persisted that a Japanese military mission had started from Kobe for Ethiopia.

Anaheim's City Park:

This beautiful plot of ground with all its appointments and improvements is the talk of Southern California. Daily its popularity is increasing. Anaheim, generous and hospitable, has made the stranger welcome and Orange county communities have been quick to show their appreciation. Hardly a day or night passes that does not find some organization outside the city of Anaheim using it for a picnic or a get-together of some other sort.

How, we ask, does it happen that Anaheim manages to support such a fine institution while other cities sit by and wish they were as fortunate? The Anaheim city park is an interesting story of community enterprise and unselfishness. How it was organized, what happens there, how it is administered and what it costs form the subject of an interesting series of articles appearing in The Journal. The second of the series will be found today on page 7.

COUNTY MAY IMPORT MORE WATER FROM METROPOLITAN DISTRICT

OFFICIALS OF AREA STUDY REQUEST

Conference Held Here Between Local and Other Heads

Importation of water to Orange county is still a live subject today. The recently suggested possibility of bringing in additional Metropolitan Water district supplies is the topic uppermost in the minds of county water district directors following a conference here with Metropolitan district directors on the subject last night at the Green Cat cafe.

C. A. Palmer, secretary of the local water district board, said today that while no commitments were made and no price was discussed for water, the Metropolitan representatives said their board would give the matter consideration.

Water 3 Years Away

The Metropolitan group pointed out that it will be three years before Colorado river water is available through the Metropilitan aqueduct, and that no policy has been established as to sale of water to areas not in the district.

If water were imported in this manner, it probably would be placed in existing irrigation canals, thus reducing the amount of pumping necessary by commercial water distributing concerns. This, in turn, would leave more underground water in the Santa Ana river basin available to other pumpers.

Officials at Meet

The local water district was represented at last night's meeting by Mr. Palmer, William Wallop of Anaheim, C. Roy Browning of Tustin, William Schumacher of Buena Park, and Paul Bailey, the district's consulting engineer.

Col. S. H. Finley of Santa Ana, secretary of the Metropolitan district; City Engineer E. P. Hapgood of Anaheim, City Engineer Herman Hiltscher of Fullerton, Director Thomas and Chief Engineer Weymouth appeared for the Metropolitan district.

BRITISH REPRIMAND TO ITALY DISCLOSED

LONDON, Aug. 7. (AP)—An official source disclosed today that the British government made "strong representations" to Italy July 26 regarding "the recent violent attacks in the Italian Press against Great Britain.

The representations were made through Ambassador Grandi of Italy by officials at the foreign office, and it was stated he promised to inform his government of the British attitude.

Since that time, according to the same source, the British government has received no reply from Italy.

Ramsay MacDonald became acting prime minister of Great Britain today on the eve of an expected climax to the Anglo-Italian controversy over Ethiopia.

Uneasy over already frayed relations between this country and Italy, the government decided to let France take the lead in next week's tri-power talks at Paris. The decision was reached before Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin departed for a vacation at Aix-Les-Bains, France.

36. Last year the allowance was $172,865. The increase in the hospital budget is for the purpose of constructing a new ward to house tubercular patients. For this purpose $26,000 has been set up in the budget, and it is proposed to seek federal aid in construction of the building through the federal Public Works administration. Crowded conditions in the hospital make this addition imperative, officials have pointed out.

It also was revealed that the county road tax has been reduced from 12 cents to 4 cents.

SPEEDER OUTSPEEDS COPS

Officers Travel 90, Car 120

Highway Patrolmen Lloyd Groover and Ernest Sawyer were telling fellow patrolmen this morning of a pre-breakfast jaunt down the coast highway between Serra and San Onofre at the rate of 90 miles an hour.

"And that's not all," commented Officer Groover, "the car we were chasing was pulling away from us."

After a chase of more than 12 miles, the speeding car was overtaken at San Onofre in San Diego county. The pursued machine had slowed down while going through San Clemente, enabling officers to close the gap between the two machines.

Driver of the speeding machine was John De Puy, 21, of Utah. After Officers Broover and Sawyer stopped him, he told them that at one point in the chase he had reached a speed of 120 miles an hour, and by using a super charger connected with the motor of the car he was driving, he could have gone 140.

The car De Puy was driving was manufactured in Germany.

"We had our car wide open," Officer Groover said. "At one point in the case, De Puy was clear out of sight, and we almost decided to give up the chase, but changed our minds. We gave him a ticket for doing 80 in a 45-mile zone."

SEE SOLUTION TO CLUB ROW

A new ordinance permitting gun clubs to operate in Orange county under a license that would require the metering of all water used to flood duck ponds, may be the final solution to the squabble that has existed between the gun club operators and certain farming and water interests.

The squabble has been dragged out for several years with the result that several injunction suits against gun clubs as well as criminal actions against the clubs are now pending in court. The injunctions seek to restrain the clubs from using any water for their ponds.

According to the present plan which was evolved following a recently submitted report by a technical committee named by the supervisors, it is proposed to continue the county's water use ordinance which limits the amounts of water to be used, and defines wastage. In addition to that ordinance it has been proposed that a second measure be adopted permitting licensing of gun clubs with a definite annual water allowance. Under provisions of the tentative ordinance the clubs would be required to install meters on their property.

With the supervisors acting in the capacity of referee, practically all factions are said to have agreed to the above terms for amicable settlement of the row. W. C. Mauerhan and William Wallop, directors of the Orange county water district, have objected.

The new licensing ordinance is expected to be presented to the board of supervisors Friday when they meet in adjourned session.

MORE ABOUT

P. congressman was hailed today by republicans as a portent of what will come later. Democrats rejoined that the balloting yesterday lacked national significance.

"It is the beginning of the end for the New Deal," said the republican leader, Representative Snell, mentioned as a possibility for presidential nomination next year.

Representative Crowe of Indiana, as vice chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee, said on the other hand the result was "probably just a quirk where a district is returning to the party it used to support."

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 7 (AP)—Factions led by Thomas S. Rhea, veteran political warrior, and by the comparatively youthful Lieut. Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler today girded themselves for another month of tooth-and-nail fighting for the democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky. The contest goes into a run-off primary between Rhea and Chandler Sept. 7. In 3015 out of 4219 precincts Rhea had 152,855 votes; Chandler 142,136.

Republicans nominated Circuit Judge King Swope of Lexington for governor.

EIGHT VIRGINIA CONTESTS IN DOUBT

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 7 (AP)—Eight contests for seats in Virginia's general assembly remained in doubt today as election officials tabulated ballots in districts where voters turned out in record numbers for the democratic primary. Saxon Holt, president pro tempore of the senate, had a margin of 432 votes over L. A. Bivins, Newport News attorney, wih two precincts not yet tabulated.

WHITE LEADS IN MISSISSIPPI VOTE

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 7 (AP)—Hugh White, Columbia lumberman, held a lead of more than 2000 votes over his nearest rival in yesterday's gubernatorial primary election on returns today from 639 precincts out of 1638. Paul Johnson, former member of congress, stood second, and Dennis Murphree, lieutenant-governor, was third.

ACTION DUE ON DREDGING PLEA

Action on the request that the supervisors approve the expenditure of $127,000 for additional dredging work at Newport harbor probably will be taken Friday afternoon when the supervisors meet in adjourned session. That item is one of the principal matters scheduled for the meeting.

At the board meeting yesterday R. L. Patterson, city engineer for Newport Beach, George Rodgers of Balboa and Los Angeles and one of the outstanding campaigners for the $2,000,000 habor development program now nearing completion, and Harry Welch, secretary of the Newport harbor chamber of commerce requested approval of the project.

They said that while dredgers are at work on the harbor project it is proposed to deepen the channel at Balboa from the 10-foot depth estimated in the original project to 20 feet, and an increase to 15 feet in the channel at Newport. This additional dredging, they said, would permit the entry into the harbor of larger pleasure yachts whose owners have expressed a desire to make the harbor their home port.

In requesting the approval of the supervisors, Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Patterson said that when the present development program is completed there will be a surplus of approximately $200,000 in funds raised for the work through a bond issue and federal grant. The board delayed action pending investigation of legal phases of the request.

Hurley denied he ever had lobbied

Exchange Shouts

The former cabinet officer alternately sat and stood at the committee table as he and Chairman Black shouted at each other.

Black denied the committee was unfair to Hurley. He refused to let the tall former secretary of war make a final speech of the committee.

Hurley left the stand advising the committee to read the Golden Rule.

Tumulty Called

Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to President Wilson and now an attorney here, called next, said he was employed by a number of utility companies for advise in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

He said he had received $6000 from the American Waterworks; $2500 from Public Service of New Jersey, and $12,500 each from the Commonwealth and Southern and City Service corporation. That totals $33,500.

Out of this, he said he had paid or intended to pay $2500 each to two associates and $5000 to former Senator Moses (R., N. H.).

He described all three as old friends, saying he had consulted Moses to get his "congressional viewpoint on legislation of this character."

Insull Named

The name of Samuel Insull was brought into the hearing by Tumulty, who said:

"I can't be part of the mob that can tear down a man who was kind to me in any way. I was retained by Insull in 1927."

At that time he said he advised the Insull group not to hinder the move of the late Senator Walsh of Montana to investigate the power industry.

Tumulty listed a number of other fees he had received during 1934 and 1935 on other matters. Senator Black totalled them at $109,700, included the Wheeler-Rayburn amounts.

STOCK SALE TO WIFE ILLEGAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—The alleged sale by Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank of New York, of stock to his wife to establish a loss for income purposes was held fraudulent today by the board of tax appeals.

PLAN COUNTY NEWS DRIVE

Associated Chambers of Commerce to Sponsor Advertising Idea

A county-wide survey designed as the basis of an ultimate publicity and advertising program with which Orange county could "go to town" in a big way was authorized last night by the general publicity committee of the associated chambers of commerce. The group met at Wilson's cafe, Balboa.

In order to handle the job Edward Hall, Santa Ana, chairman of a sub-committee on publicity, was instructed to enlarge his group from five to 10 members, and to send out questionnaires to all chambers of commerce in the county.

Information gained from these questionnaires would be assembled to present a comprehensive picture of what Orange county has to offer tourists and what attractions can be most advantageously publicized.

Mr. Hall suggested that a study be made of a similar program being carried out in Santa Barbara. A speaker may be asked to explain the program to the associated chambers of commerce, and a group representing the committee probably will go to Santa Barbara for first hand information. Mr. Hall's committee was appointed a month ago to work out a publicity program in cooperation with the county publicity work authorized by the board of supervisors.

KIWANIS HEARS WHALE TALES

Members of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club at their noon meeting today in the James cafe heard Dr. Elmer Belt of Los Angeles tell of his experiences resulting from numerous trips aboard whaling vessels off the California coast. Dr. Belt's talk was illustrated with three reels of motion pictures taken on whaling vessels, showing the methods used in capturing the mammals.

Dr. Belt recounted the discovery of a 14-foot baby found inside a whale caught on a recent trip. He said the baby whales range in weight from 1400 to 1500 pounds.

Dr. Belt expressed the belief that whales will soon be extinct, saying that the various countries in the world engaged in whaling should reach some kind of an agreement whereby hunting of whales could be regulated according to seasons. He also pointed out that only a small portion of the whale is used, the rest being thrown away.

SET DATE FOR SALES EVENT

Approach of the fall shopping season was foreshadowed in Santa Ana today. The retail division of the chamber of commerce met this morning and set September 19 as the date for the fall opening celebration and style displays.

The meeting at the chamber of commerce was attended by approximately 15 leading retail merchants, and was presided over by J. H. Bell, retail division chairman.

The fall opening is expected to be an event somewhat similar to the spring event at which the merchants held open house, displayed latest styles in men's and women's apparel, and special music was provided to aid in making the affair a gala occasion.

Another meeting to formulate more definite plans will take place week after next, Mr. Bell said.

balanced anything detrimental to the schools. Dr. Baker pointed out the fact that the Santa Ana schools had gained recognition throughout the country as the result of the fine work that had been turned out by the Fine Arts Press.

Praises Fine Work

"I have investigated the matter thoroughly," Dr. Baker said, "and I feel that it would be doing a great injustice to limit the production of the Fine Arts Press. The beautiful work that has been done by Mr. Williams reflects credit upon our schools, and Santa Ana has become known as the result of this work."

Ridley Smith, a member of the board, last night said the name of the print shop should be changed to more closely identify it as a department of the junior college. He also said he believed the commercial angle should be eliminated. In commenting on the matter, Rolla Hays, also a member of the board, said, "I believe it would be much wiser to have the printers of Santa Ana with us than against us."

INSURRECTION PLOT FOUND

Movement to Overthrow Government of Siam Starts in Army

BANGKOK, Siam, Aug. 7 (AP)—A Great insurrectionary plot aimed at the overthrow of the government with wholesale death for officials was reported uncovered today among Siam's defense forces.

A number of noncommissioned officers, who allegedly planned to arrest and slay their superiors, assume command of the army forces and seize the administration, were reported arrested.

Former King Prajadhipok of Siam, until recently one of the world's few remaining absolute monarchs, abdicated from the throne March 3. He retired to private life as Prince Sukhodaya, one of England's country gentlemen.

The sovereign refused to brook his parliment's determination to modify his powers of life and death over his 10,000,000 subjects.

Eleven-year-old Prince Ananda, the former king's nephew, studying at Lausanne, Switzerland, was proclaimed king. He is the son of Prajadhipok's late brother, Prince Mahidol.

A regency council was named to administer state affairs until he reaches his majority.

VALUED PRIZE HORSE KILLED

STOCKTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—Fanita, 8-year-old prize mare owned by Mrs. T. M. Meanley of Miramar, was killed at the county fair stables here late yesterday. The animal rearer backward, its head striking the hard baked earth. It died an hour later. Trainer Hube Young, mounted on the horse at the time, narrowly escaped injury.

Mrs. Meanley (who is the aount of John P. Scripps, publisher of The Journal) once refused an offer of $10,000 for the mare which was one of the best horses owned by the sportswoman.

PLANE DESIGNER TO TAKE VACATION WITH MOTHER HERE

Word has been received by Mrs. C. Y. Martin, 810 Minter street, Santa Ana, the mother of Glenn L. Martin, airplane manufacturer, that he would arrive in Santa Ana the latter part of August and remain here for an extended vacation.

Mrs. Martin was particularly elated over the report that two gigantic flying boats recently developed by the Martin company had successfully passed tests. These particular flying boats are designed for trans-Pacific flight, with their base at San Francisco. They will fly between the United States and Canton, China, Mrs. Martin said.

Each of the huge ships is equipped with four motors and is capable of carrying 50 passengers.

Mrs. Martin has been living in Hollywood since the death of her husband a short time ago. Recently she returned to Santa Ana, and is living at her former home on Minter street.

BAD NEWS PROVES TO BE GOOD NEWS TO GROWERS

Bad news is good news today for Orange county citrus growers.

When oranges began to drop, largely as a result of tortrix worm infestations, that was bad news. But today, when the drop has become large enough to materially reduce the surplus of fruit, the bad news has an element of encouragement in it.

Various estimates place the loss of fruit from this source at figures ranging from 3 to 4 per cent of the total crop to as high as 12 or 15 per cent. In some orchards it has been as high as the latter figure, said Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs, but he said the average probably is a great deal lower.

E. H. Salter of Fullerton, who works with the California-Arizona marketing agreement commission, said today that a check has been made in certain sections and that he does not believe the average drop has been more than 3 or 4 per cent of the total crop. The drop is largely in Orange county, particularly in the neighborhood of Santa Ana and West Anaheim, although southern Los Angeles county also has felt the effects of the tortrix worm.

Some of the drop has been caused by black scale, Mr. Salter said.

On the first of July a check of 1200 scattered trees showed a drop of 60 oranges per tree. However, Mr. Salter believes that the main loss of fruit from worm infestation is reaching an end.

Mr. Tubbs said the infestation is heavier this year because conditions have been favorable, while conditions for parasites preying on the worm have not been so favorable. Four years ago there was another heavy infestation. Growers whose orchards are affected are dusting with cryolite, and some are putting cryolite into their spray materials.

TREASURE HUNT IS ON AGAIN

Diggers Resume Searchings

Apparently not in the least discouraged by a cave-in that made it necessary to cease work temporarily in the search for buried treasure on the James A. McCalla ranch at West First street and Harbor boulevard, those interested in the project again have started work.

Soon after one of the walls in the hole, which had been sunk to a depth of 33 feet, caved in on July 11, the Rev. C. D. Hicks, minister of the Christian Alliance church of Santa Ana, who is one of those actively interested in the project, left on a vacation. The Rev. Mr. Hicks has returned to Santa Ana, and he and his partners are tackling the project with renewed vigor.

At the time of his departure, the Rev. Mr. Hicks announced that he was rather skeptical about the outcome of the project. He said, however, that if there is any treasure found at the bottom of the hole, he will receive a share of it.

Just prior to the cave-in, one of the five men interested in the treasure hunt thrust a steel bar through the floor of the hole, and water gushing from the opening carried several splinters of wood resembling that described in the map which led the treasure seekers to this particular locality. This fact, apparently, played a part in their decision to continue the work.

Bricks, furnished by one of the treasure hunters, are being used to line the walls of the excavation to prevent further cave-ins. A pump near the hole is kept in constant use during the digging, since a good flow of water is coming from the hole. Pullies and ropes, rigged over a triangular wooden structure made from timbers, are used in excavation work.

The Rev. Mr. Hicks said it has been found necessary to remove the old pipe that had been sunk into the hole and replace it with a new one. Work on the project resumed this week, he said, and precautions will be taken to prevent a repetition of the cave-in.

SCORES SEE BARBARA OFF

Father To Surprise 'Queen'

Scores of friends and relatives thronged the docks at Wilmington this morning to see Barbara Rowland, California's Outdoor Girl, and her mother, Mrs. Fred Rowland, sail out of the harbor on the President Hoover for a three-weeks trip to Hawaii, the prize offered for her achievement in the recent contest at the Salinas rodeo.

Trim in a white and brown sports ensemble, Barbara stood beside her mother, in nautical blue and white, waving farewells to those who had come to wish them "bon voyage." Their stateroom was flanked with flowers and farewell gifts.

As a surprise to Barbara, Mayor Rowland plans to drive north in the morning, boarding the ship before it sails Friday, and take the trip to Hawaii with his wife and daughter. Her father's trip has been kept secret from Barbara as a special treat. Members of the San Francisco chamber of commerce and fellow competitors from Salinas will join the "send off" party at San Francisco.

Among those at Wilmington this morning were Mayor Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wilson and daughter, Barbara John, Miss Lavinia Scott, Dr. Elliott H. Rowland and Mrs. Rowland, Miss Betty Rowland, Mrs. Bruce Monroe, Mrs. Hillary Harkness, Mrs. C. F. Crose, Mrs. E. D. White and daughter, Nancy, Mrs. Jack Cloyes, Mrs. Harry Hanson jr., and Miss Ruth Rowland.

COUNTY MEN GET POSTS ON BOARD

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 7. (AP)—Governor Merriam today announced selection of members of district agricultural associations throughout the state. They include:

Charles Van Wyk, Garden Grove, director of 32nd District Agricultural association, Orange county, succeeding William Schumacher, for term ending January 15, 1936.

W. J. Carmichael, Fullerton, director of 32nd District Agricultural association, succeeding T. B. Talbert, for term ending January 15, 1937.

S. W. Stanley, Tustin, director of 32nd District Agricultural association, succeeding Donald C. Jones, for term ending January 15, 1939.

H. A. Lake, Garden Grove, director of 32nd District Agricultural association, reappointed, for term ending January 15, 1939.

PUSH COUNTY'S GUEST PLANS

With the Placentia Mutual citrus packing house carrying on a successful hospitality program for tourists, steps were being taken today to make possible an expansion of this project so that other houses in the county can carry on similar campaigns.

Orange county packing houses will welcome tourist visitors from the San Diego exposition, it was pointed out last night at a meeting of the associated chambers of commerce publicity committee in Wilson's cafe, Balboa. If arrangements are worked out to give cards to tourists at the exposition, inviting them to local packing houses, the program should operate smoothly and successfully it was agreed.

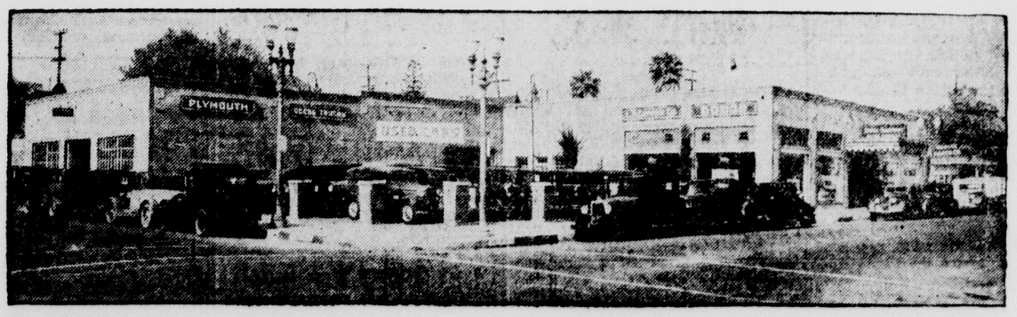

A sub-committee was authorized to contact packing houses and exchanges with a view to making arrangements for an enlarged program. Speakers at the meeting, called by Clyde E. Simmons of Yorba Linda, chairman, were of the opinion that the next step should be to arrange for visits to packing houses at Orange, Fullerton and possibly other communities.

DEFENSE PLANNED IN ARSON TRIAL

With his motion for a directed verdict, exonerating Edward Tabor and Jess Sibley of conspiracy and arson, denied by Presiding Judge James L. Allen in department 2, superior court, Mark Herron, chief counsel for the accused men, prepared today to launch the defense case. The prosecution, directed by District Attorney S. B. Kaufman and Deputy District Attorney Preston Turner, required more than a week to present its case.

Tabor and Sibley are accused in connection with the fire which destroyed a Huntington Beach apartment house owned by Tabor. They were implicated in the case through statements of Henry Eli and John Rose, sentenced to San Quentin for their share in the crime. Both Eli and Rose have been called as prosecution witnesses.

AGED WOMAN DIES FROM INJURIES

Fatal accidents in county this year	35
Fatal accidents this time last year	34

Mrs. Inez May Crane, 79, of 602 Cypress street, died in the Santa Ana valley hospital last night as the result of injuries sustained in an accident July 29 in Laguna Beach. Mrs. Crane was sitting in a car parked in a vacant lot at the edge of a 10-foot embankment. The brakes failed to hold, and the heavy machine plunged over the bluff to the highway below.

Mrs. Crane's husband, William M. Crane, and her maid, Mrs. Mae Haynes, also were in the car at the time, but managed to escape uninjured. The car had been parked in the lot by her daughter, Mrs. D. N. Kelly of Tustin.

Besides her husband and daughter, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Crane leaves two other daughters, Mrs. George Tedford of Los Angeles and Mrs. Corie Seymour of Burlingame, and a son, William M. Crane jr., of Burlingame. The body has been removed to the Smith and Tuthill mortuary where funeral arrangements will be announced later.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN TO ENTERTAIN AT AMBASSADOR

Republican women of the Southland will be hostesses at a luncheon Monday noon in Hotel Ambassador, Los Angeles, honoring Mrs. Wilma D. Hoyal, republican national committee-woman from Arizona.

Mrs. Hoyal will spend a short time in Southern California before continuing to Washington, D. C., to serve as head of the women's division of the republican national committee. Her luncheon address is expected to be of great interest to the several hundred women who will attend the luncheon.

Reservations may be made with Ida Koverman at RE 0211, station 644, or with Grace Stoermer, TRinity 4353.

The luncheon committee includes Mesdames Ida Mayer Cummings, William E. Evans, Buron Fitts, John D. Fredericks, E. A. C. Hammond, William Lincoln Honnold, Hedda Hopper, Leiland Atherton Irish, Ida R. Koverman, Harvey S. Mudd, Edith Van De Water and Louise Ward Watkins, and Miss Ida R. Koverman.

SPURGEON SOCIETY HAS 65 PRESENT

Sixty-five members of the Spurgeon Memorial Missionary society assembled yesterday at the church for their monthly meeting.

Mrs. George Preble led the Bible lesson and Mrs. Henry Donan was in charge of the questionnaire. A lecture on soap-making by Miss O'Connor featured the luncheon, which was served by the Susannah Wesley circle, under direction of Mrs. Lilly Hamilton, president.

Mrs. Walter Fine led devotionals at the afternoon session, and a leaflet on Korea was presented by Mrs. W. C. Kirven, Mrs. Ed Schwarm and Mrs. J. Barnes.

Sept. 4 was set as the date of the next meeting.

MAJOR MYSTERIES OF SCIENCE, by H. Gordon Garbedian.

Man has been confronted and puzzled by the mysteries of nature ever since the beginning of time. Each succeeding generation has felt that it has reached the epitome of human advancement. Yet in each generation certain men continue to explore, construct and develop improvements on inventions at hand; study and excavate to unfold the history of the past; search and look for knowledge of the heavens and so science marches on.

The simple discovery of Watt has given us the great steam turbine. The discoveries of Faraday have given us electric lights and motors. Today the chemist turns a log of wood into a silk vest, and discarded cotton seed into sugar. Science has developed a status of everyday concern to us.

But what is coming next? When the world's coal, oil and gas give out, when the mines are exhausted—what then? Scientists are getting ready. Industry is experimenting with power from the winds, electricity from the sun.

The purpose of this book is to graphically review the march of science through the ages. It explains the progress being made today, the problems still unsolved, and the probabilities of the future.

ILLYRIAN SPRING, by Ann Bridge.

Ann Bridge has won her fame as a novelist for her novels of China, "Peking Picnic" and "The Ginger Griffin." However, she knows other lands as well as this one. As the wife of a diplomat, she has traveled to the ends of the earth. "Illyrian Spring" has for its setting the little known Dalmatian coast.

This is the story of a clever woman who has become dominated by her family. She is reduced to such a state of unhappy inferiority that she disappears in the general direction of the Greek islands. In Grace Kilmichael, the author has drawn a woman whose charm and whose trouble cause in us deep response. Her honesty, her shyness, her unclever integrity, give this story a warmth and a delight not easily matched in modern fiction. At the end of her Illyrian spring we know she will be a match for her disturbed family.

Meet Your Neighbor

Name:
Lyle Kelly.
Occupation:
Investigator for California realty reports.
When and where were you born?
Orange, Calif., 1905.
What has been the most interesting event of your life to date?
Attending the opening ceremonies of the Olympic Games.
What career would you recommend for a young man starting out for himself today?
Politics—they need young men with modern ideas.
What is your favorite department or feature in The Journal?
Editorial column.
Your second choice?
The local view on sports.
What should be the United States government's next major step?
Advance a program of proper taxation.
What one thing does Santa Ana need most?
More playgrounds, in order to keep our children from playing in the streets.
How can Orange county be improved?
By getting back of a program that would insure an even greater development of the Newport Harbor than is at present planned.
One sentence interview: I think that a playground system in Orange county should be developed to the extent where inter-group games can be played the year around. This system should have as its basis good sportsmanship and the desire to promote good clean fun among young and old alike.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP IS AWARDED TO MRS. H. KIMBALL

Impressive ceremonies surrounded the presentation of the gold life membership card to Mrs. Hattie Kimball, 90-year-old mother of Sid Kimball, at a meeting of Calumpit auxiliary, U. S. W. V., and attended by members of the camp, last night in the K. of C. hall.

Commander A. H. Hall, from the center of the circle formed by members of the camp, presented Mrs. Kimball a bouquet of flowers. The nonagenarian is the second mother to become a life member of the auxiliary.

August 13 was set as the date of an open house at the K. of C. hall for both the camp and auxiliary with cards available for members and friends. A program has been planned, and refreshments will be served. August 20, the birthday of the auxiliary will be celebrated.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kincaid at Oceanside will be the scene of the sewing circle Wednesday, August 14. Reservations are to be made with Commander Hall or Frank Rowe for transportation. The drum corps bus will leave the K. of C. hall at 8:30 a. m.

Appreciation for election as delegate to the convention in Dallas, Tex., was expressed by Dena Isbell at the auxiliary meeting.

Visitors at the meeting were Minnie Upham, Laura Keyes, Edna Reilly, Anna Florida of Long Beach, Edith Ray of Huntington Park, and Bessie Collins of Dallas, Tex.

Sunday, August 11, set as Manila day, is expected to draw a delegation from Santa Ana to the program at Sawtelle. Entertainment and basket lunch have been planned, and an inspection of the hospital will be made.

Camp members were ordered to vote for Bills No. 1 and 3 in the August 13 election by Department Commander Frank Ziegler.

WANT RECRUITS FOR ARMY VACANCIES

Sixteen vacancies in the Hawaiian department of the United States army, and 18 at Fort McArthur are open during the month of August, Sergeant Michael J. Joyce, in charge of the local army recruting office, said today.

In the Hawaiian department there are eight openings in the infantry, two in field artillery, four in coast artillery and two in chemical warfare. At Fort McArthur there are 10 vacanacies in the Sixty-third coast artillery, anti-aircraft division and eight openings in the Third coast artillery.

The local recruting office is in room 207, postoffice building. Men between the ages of 18 and 25, who are single and without dependents, are eligible.

D. A. V. CHAPTER MEETS TONIGHT

Members of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, will convene tonight at the K. of C. hall at 8 o'clock, V. L. Brown, commander, announced today.

Committee reports will be given in addition to a resume of the recent national D. A. V. convention. Plans for the coming months will be outlined.

Arrangements for another outdoor gathering August 21 at Jack Fisher park will be discussed.

NEW BUSINESS COLLEGE HEAD

R. C. ANDERSON

R. C. Anderson, well known business educator, has taken over personal supervision of the Orange County Business college here, it became known today. Having conducted business schools at San Jose, Sacramento, Santa Barbara and Santa Cruz, Mr. Anderson has had years of successful experience in business college work.

Among the leading business colleges of the country by which he has been employed are the Spencerian Business college, Milwaukee, Wis.; Bliss college, Columbus, O.; Wilson's Business college, Seattle, Wash., and Heald's Business college, San Francisco.

Mr. Anderson, who is an Elk and also has been a Rotarian for several years, was one of the pioneers in the movement that resulted in organization of the present California Business Educators' association, of which he was secretary for one year.

"We like Santa Ana and are here to stay," said Mr. Anderson today. "We are convinced that there is an opportunity in this locality for high grade business and secretarial training and we propose to conduct a school that is second to none."

DIPLOMAS GRANTED FOR STUDENTS

The board of education last night approved a request presented by Lynn Crawford, principal of Santa Ana High school, that four students who have completed their high school senior work during the summer, be granted diplomas. The four are Howard W. Heber, Ethel Louise Hodge, Edith Dorothy Marshall and Jean Elizabeth Phillips.

Henderson announced last night that reconstruction work on the Spurgeon school soon will be completed. There only remains the installation of chairs in the auditorium and a few other articles of equipment. Plans for dedication of the new structure will be made shortly after the opening of school, he said.

FURTHER IMPROVEMENT OF FULLERTON'S CITY PARKS PLANNED

GET GROUND FOR MORE WORK

Santa Fe and Hillcrest Parks Are Included in Projects

FULLERTON. — Further projects which will make Fullerton one of the outstanding communities in Orange county for its parks were presented to the city council at last night's regular meeting by City Engineer Herman Hiltscher.

The city engineer reported that more land has been made available by the Santa Fe railroad for improvement of the small park at Santa Fe avenue and Spadra road. Grounds for croquet and roque courts will probably be prepared by the city at this spot, it was reported.

Projects for improvement in Hillcrest park, including picnic tables and a ball field, were presented to the council. Improvement of the sycamore grove in the park was also urged.

Ask Parking Law

Fifty-two merchants of the city petitioned the council to lay out a different plan for enforcement of the two-hour parking ordinance, asking that a smaller area be included in the new plan. Heretofore the ordinance has not been enforced, they charged. The petition was referred to Chief of Police J. M. Pearson and City Attorney Albert Launer for investigation.

According to the annual auditor's report, financial condition of the city of Fullerton is excellent.

Requests that room be allowed for patriotic organizations to meet in the proposed new city hall were referred to the architect for consideration.

A fence was ordered erected around city water plant property on Palm avenue, due to two grass fires on the property recently and loss of some equipment.

ORANGE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED IN SANTA ANA

ORANGE. — Mrs. Ruth Riggle entertained the Chat and Sew club in her home on North Orange street, Santa Ana, last night. A tray supper was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. M. C. Williams. Club members attending were Mrs. J. J. Vernon and Mrs. Dale Griggs, both of Santa Ana; Mrs. Vern Estes, Mrs. Ensley Campbell, Mrs. C. E. Wood, Mrs. Oliver Wickershiem, Mrs. Wilbur Woods, Mrs. Carl Pister, Mrs. J. T. McInnis, Mrs. E. C. Frevert and Mrs. J. W. Powell, all of Orange.

Mrs. Edwin Wescott and daughters, Lorraine and Arden, are spending a two weeks vacation at Crestline, near Lake Arrowhead.

PARKING CAMPAIGN ON IN LAGUNA

LAGUNA BEACH.—Due to the seasonal increase in traffic this summer the parking problem has reached serious proportions, according to Police Chief Abe Johnson, who is carrying on a campaign to make people more parking-limit conscious.

"The hour-and-a-half parking limit must be observed in the downdown district," the chief said, "and so must the 10-minute zones. Cooperation on the part of everyone will relieve the extra burden on the department and make more room for shoppers."

Chief Johnson intimated that the ticket campaign would continue as long as necessary, at least until parking conditions have returned to normal.

HEARING THURSDAY ON ARSON CHARGE

NEWPORT BEACH.—Preliminary examination of F. K. Handy jr., 26, Corona del Mar resident, on a charge of arson, will be held in Judge D. J. Dodge's justice court in Newport Beach at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. He is in the county jail following hearing Monday when he failed to put up $2000 bail.

Mr. Handy was arrested Saturday and charged with arson after he is alleged to have been found in a burning store building in Costa Mesa. Frank W. Crocker, Newport Beach fire chief, will appear at the examination to show pictures of the fire.

KIOTEM CLUB HAS ORANGE MEETING

ORANGE. — The Kiotem club met with Mrs. Charles Pulley yesterday. A 1 o'clock luncheon was served by the hostess. The afternoon was spent in sewing projects by the club. Next month a dessert luncheon will be held at the home of Mrs. L. E. Raills. Members present were Mrs. C. A. McGill, Mrs. B. M. Huff, Mrs. Pearl Shell, Mrs. L. E. Raills, Mrs. Ed Windolph and the hostess.

IT'S ONLY HIGH AIR SUIT

Don't be frightened, ladies and gentlemen, this "thing" will not haunt you in your sleep. It is merely a new kind of stratosphere suit invented by Col. KAYAK MEET CONTINUED

More Events Sunday On Bay

NEWPORT BEACH.—Success of the Second Annual Southern California Kayak meet held in Newport Bay and the ocean Saturday and Sunday was acknowledged here today with announcement that the regatta would be continued next Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Many events which were not run off because of the number of entries and extensive program, coupled with additional events, will be held Sunday.

Stunting, tilting and other events will feature next Sunday's program in the bay south of Lido island. Trophies and medals for the regatta will be presented at 4 o'clock, following completion of the last race.

Coast L-i-n-e-s

By McDONALD WHITE

Down in San Juan, Judge John Landell sitting on a stool in an eating place near his office nibbling ice cream with a wooden spoon and feeling in a reminiscent mood. He told of coming to Capistrano at the turn of the century. That doesn't seem so long ago, but the world has gone crazy and is trying to come to its senses again all in that short space of time. The judge has watched lots of progressive changes. Although the bravest thing about this little town is the vigor with which it clings to the worth-while traditions that have made it what it is today.

Fidel Sepulveda dropped in to chat, proudly mentioning that his grandfather used to own the Irvine ranch. Wonder if life in those early California days had all the winey warmth of romance and adventure that we have been taught to believe? Honor, pride, hospitality. If so, life must have been generous and good. Perhaps not as "good" as today, but ticked off at a slower tempo, which breeds contentment.

Much favorable comment around town on proposed renaming of streets. Those who know and appreciate traditions of this unique community are all in favor of the plan and are ready to take what steps are necessary to make it a reality.

* * *

Richard Smith, under able tutelage of Chief Abe Johnson, surprised us all at Laguna by blossoming out as a special policeman. Every day now he is out directing traffic on one of the busy corners, and towards sundown double-parkers in front of the postoffice are apt to get the move-along signal.

Speaking of the postoffice, Laguna won't seem the same after October 1, the date when mail starts being delivered to the door. Understand the merchants aren't in favor of this march of progress. Down here going for the mail is just as much a habit as brushing the teeth, and a lot more fun. Here's the point. The postoffice has always been a great place to meet your friends. Real Lagunans don't go calling—they go to the postoffice. In the summertime the town puffs up to three times its normal size, and the line waiting for the morning mail has many of the rare treats of a George White's Scandals. Love can happen, romance, bad news, good news, checks and bills, greetings, slights, flirtations, sorrows and joys—all can have their source in the postoffice. But little Laguna has to grow up and be a big town some day. However after the service is "improved" on October 1, can just hear Frank Cuprien blaspheming, "You see that ocean—those rocks? Well, they can't improve that!"

* * *

Almost any sunny morning in the winter time you can find a group of hard-working writers talking shop out in front of the post office. Ernest Paynter, Harold Wire, Bob Du Soe, Colt Macdonald, and many others. "Guess I'll take one more look in the box. Might be a check for $1000!" Or on the other hand, and oftener, there's only rejection slips. Yet, anything that's too easy to get isn't any fun.

* * *

Sam Dawson is out getting acquainted with the whole town. He's collecting names for the much-needed 1935 city directory. Hear that 2000 books will be distributed in Laguna. And, wisely, the local merchants are making this "ham 'n eggs" for "Advertisin' Sam."

* * *

Don Wilkie, stripped to the waist and absorbing a round portion of Laguna sunshine, busily at the task of building bookcases to display what he says is, "the largest and finest crime library in existence."

* * *

Was it practical or just a joke? Anyhow, it came from "Gold Gulch," down at the San Diego exposition, and it caused a near-panic in the neighborhood. The Chet Miniers, from Ventura, stopped to visit here on the way back from the exposition. Not too early on Sunday morning started to back car out of garage—when—zing!—a long, descending whine. Swear! Must be a tire blowing out. And new ones, too. Then—bang! A noise that nearly lifted the hood off the car. Foul smoke poured out of the engine. Off went the ignition switch. The car was burning up, sure! Jumped out. Looked for a bucket. Neighbors came running. Tom Hill, "Pop" Rankin, Frank Champion. Everybody looking for a major catastrophe. Then somebody laughed. "One of those sizzlers!" somebody said, lifting up the hood of the car. Sure enough, there it was, just a fancy firecracker that went off with a preliminary whistle and a bang and was wired up to two of the spark plugs.

Try it out sometime—on somebody else!

LIGHT TOURNEY HEADS NAMED

NEWPORT BEACH.—Appointment of a temporary finance committee for the Tournament of Lights, August 24, was announced today by Commodore J. A. Beek, general chairman. The group will serve until permanent organization of the Tournament association is completed.

Commodore Beek gave impetus to the association finances recently when he presented his personal check for $100. Subscriptions from individuals and gifts from civic organizations, clubs and other groups will provide funds for the tournament.

Members of the finance committee are A. J. Twist, chairman; Gordon B. Crary, A. B. Rouselle, W. L. Jordan, J. P. Greeley, Robert E. Burns, Dr. Gordon M. Grundy, Walton Hubbard, L. W. Briggs, Walter Spicer, Sam A. Meyer, Theo Robbins, George Jeffrey, Ralph P. Maskey, Captain William Brown, J. B. McNally, Commodore William H. Rohl, Commodore T. Higbee Embree, George A. Rogers, Henry S. McKay jr. and J. E. Sadlier.

SCHOOL BUDGET REMAINS SAME

GARDEN GROVE. — Budgets for schools of the Garden Grove district will show very little change for the coming year, and no complaints have been received at the public hearings held this week, various officials reported. Salaries in all schools remain the same, and the faculty personnel unchanged in most instances. At the high school one teacher has been added while the Alamitos elementary school has eliminated one.

The budget for the high school of $63,148 as proposed by the school board, although practically the same as last year, includes salary for an additional teacher, who will take over the agricultural department. Lester Waight of Fresno, a graduate of the University School of Agriculture at Davis and of an agricultural school in San Luis Obispo, has been appointed to the position. D. S. Jordan, former agriculture teacher, will be associated with the English department of the school this year. The additional teacher was made necessary through increased enrollment.

Although no complaints were registered against the elementary school's proposed budget of $72,708, the board, after careful consideration, feels that this sum may be further reduced before its adoption, Superintendent S. R. Fitz said.

The budget of $4,980 adopted by the board of the Alamitos elementary school shows a decrease over last year, when the amount was $6130. Attendance dropped to the point where only two teachers were necessary, and one teacher was dropped, her salary making the change in the budget. The teachers retained are Mrs. Marie L. Hare and Mrs. Anna Campbell.

ORANGE RESIDENTS ATTEND SHOWER AT WESTMINSTER

ORANGE.—A number of guests from Orange attended a shower given in honor of Mrs. Ronald McDaniel, near Westminster, last night.

Guests were Mrs. G. A. Gates, Mrs. Grace Cleveland, Mrs. Jeff Morgan, Miss Luberta Morgan, Mrs. M. E. Bivens, Mrs. Randall Bivens, Mrs. Ed Windolph, Miss Lucile Gates, Mrs. Bruce Richards, Mrs. George Wayne and Mrs. Hart Wayne, all of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Swope of Yorba Linda, Mrs. Ruth Sloane of Buena Park and Mrs. C. Nelson of Westminster.

FOUR INJURED IN LAGUNA WRECK

LAGUNA BEACH. — A car driven by Mrs. Ralph Frost of Laguna collided with a car driven by John W. Sturgeon of Tulare recently. The accident occurred at the corner of Ocean and Beach streets, and Mr. Sturgeon's car was overturned.

Mrs. Frost, well-known local society woman, received slight injuries to her knee and knee cap, according to Dr. E. C. Day.

Martha Sturgeon, 8, received cuts on one eyelid. Mrs. Nina MacKenzie, 43, 944 West 74th street, Los Angeles, a scalp injury, and Mr. Sturgeon was badly shaken up. The three occupants of the Sturgeon car received first aid from Dr. B. B. Mason.

The Richmond, Va., symphony orchestra, which has confined its concerts to six weeks a year in the past, will have a season running from November to March this winter.

GROVE POSTAL RECEIPTS UP

GARDEN GROVE.—Postal receipts of the Garden Grove post office for the month just closed show an increase over the previous month as well as for July, 1934, according to a report of Postmaster Clair Head issued today. Receipts for July, 1935, were $818.43 as compared with $800.25 for the same month a year ago and $706.81 for June, 1935.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gill and family have returned from a short business and pleasure trip to San Francisco. Their son, Jimmy, remained for two weeks' visit with friends at Turlock.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Pearson returned Monday from several days spent at their cabin at Big Bear Lake. For the week-end they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Doig and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wheeler.

Mrs. J. L. Abbott and children have returned to their home in Los Angeles following a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Arkley. Miss Joyce Arkley accompanied her home and will remain this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Goddard entertained Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pyle of Long Beach at dinner recently.

Rush Bumgardner of the entomology department of the county and state horticultural office has returned from a two-week vacation spent with former college friends in Lake county.

CLUB SECTION HAS SESSION

ORANGE. — The First Home Economics section of the Orange Woman's club met at the home of Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake on North Main street yesterday. The meeting was preceded by a luncheon, prepared by a committee of Mesdames C. C. Bonebrake, Anna Elmer, Raymond McCarthey and C. O. Oldfield.

Eighteen section members and six guests were present, the guests being Mrs. Joseph D. Brown and Mrs. Ethel Koeing both of Youngstown, Ohio; Mrs. Roy Carr and Mrs. Clyde White of Uplands, Mrs. Curtis Polk, Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. E. L. Niles of Orange.

Auction and contract bridge were played with Mrs. Cora Schooley winning first in auction, and Mrs. H. A. Coburn and Mrs. Guy Richards winning prizes in contract. The September luncheon will be held at the East Chapman street home of Mrs. Henry Terry, with a luncheon committee of Mrs. Terry, Mesdames N. T. Edwards, Ernest Ross and Byron Fletcher.

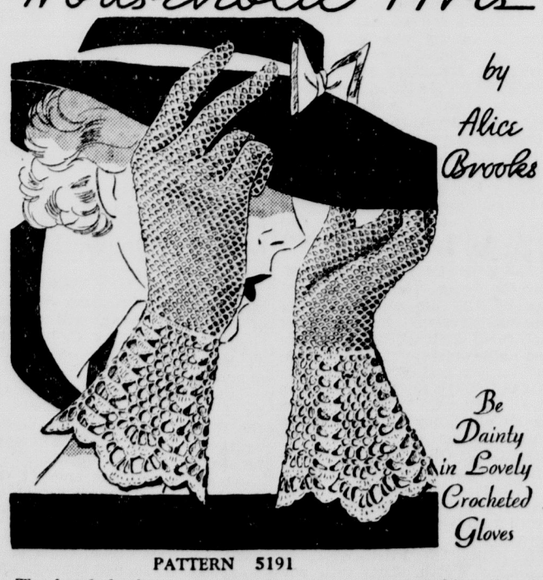

Mr. and Mrs. David Fairbairn left yesterday for San Francisco, where they will be the guests of Mrs. Fairbairn's aunt, Mrs. E. S. Poor. After a visit of several days, they will go to the state American Legion convention at Fresno, which will be in session August 11 to 14. Mrs. Fairbairn, president of the local auxiliary, and Mr. Fairbairn, newly elected commander of the local Legion post, are delegates to the convention.

Mrs. Minnie Lovell of Long Beach, formerly of Orange, became seriously ill late Monday, making it necessary for her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lovell of Orange, to be called to her bedside yesterday.

Helen Seifert, 8-year-old deaf and blind Nebraska girl, has learned to speak 60 words and read a little Braille, at a Watertown, Mass., institution.

PATTERN 5191

The hand-chocheted glove is the high note of fashion this summer — without it your wardrobe is definitely lacking an accessory that can make the plainest clothes attractive. This glove — the hand is in a simple mesh with the cuff in an effective design that is quickly made — will be the envy of your friends. Aside from its beauty, it has the advantage of laundering so well that it will wear indefinitely.

In pattern 5191 you will find detailed instructions for making the gloves shown in a small, medium and large size (all in one pattern); material requirements; illustrations of the gloves and of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Santa Ana Journal Household Arts Dept., 117 E. Fifth St., Santa Ana, Calif.

POLICE FROLIC TONIGHT

Officers Guests At Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Peace officers of Orange county will forget their duties to join in an evening of fun and frolic tonight as guests of Huntington Beach and Police Chief George M. Gelzer.

Activities start with a plunge party at the warm salt water pool on the ocean front at 6:30 p. m., with a dinner to be served at the Memorial hall an hour later. Ladies of the Christian church will serve the meal.

There will be a brief business meeting upstairs, after which dancing will be enjoyed in the auditorium. Bill Hengoid's Troubadors will supply music.

Attack Squadron Has Party at Newport Beach

NEWPORT BEACH.—A party of more than 60 members of the 34th Attack Squadron of the Army Air force stationed at March Field enjoyed an outing at Newport Beach yesterday.

After a luncheon served on the beach the men swam, fished, and toured the harbor. They danced at the Rendezvous ballroom in the evening. Lieut. Paule E. Todd was in command of the group.

Brick Dust

Growing pains are a pleasure as compared to what school board members in some communities are suffering these days.

State inspectors have ruled their buildings unsafe, since which they have been in a position where they'll be cussed if they call bond elections and cussed if they don't.

Fullerton's elementary board has surveyed the situation and decided their only out is for the district to vote $156,000 in bonds. Brea's burden will be $115,000, while in Placentia the figure has been set at $160,000.

These board members have my sympathy. It takes a lot of nerve to up and tell your public that they should spend that much money, even if it's for such a good purpose.

The world war is going to look like an outing at Anaheim park alongside of the Battle of Paste Pots that's going to be staged if Skinny Skribbles doesn't stop chiselling the county desk's mucilage.

The mere loss of the gummy substance wouldn't be so bad, but when he shakes his fist under my nose, that sounds like a challenge, even in Scandanavian. The decks are cleared.

It seems that ambidexterity in motor cops is greatly to be desired.

That's a personal observation from the other day when I saw a state highway policer with three or four fertilizer trucks lined up, waiting for tickets.

I still can't figure how that man could write out tickets and hold his nose at the same time.

Woe is me! Another old friend, weighed down by the cares of years, is about to heed the Last Call.

Nope, it's not a funeral, but the old fire bell at Yorba Linda.

That bell has spent countless years waiting to be rung for a fire, and now they're going to replace it with a modern, screeching, and no doubt efficient, fire siren.

With blushes, I'll admit that I might name some of the youngsters, who long years ago, rang that bell, getting residents from their beds. We always got away.

Who was that, up in the gallery, who suggested that maybe those same youngsters were old enough now to be interested in the new siren?

W. A. Maxwell, South Coast Dispatcher from Capistrano, has qualified for membership in the Dan'l Boone club, all in his own right. While taking the family hound for an airing recently, he attacked and overcame a large and active rattlesnake, according to a reliable report from O. K. Maxwell, junior member of the family.

That's not meant for adverse advertising for Dana Point, where the newspaper family lives, either. You're liable to find almost any sort of animal in Orange county communities. I saw a baboon in Fullerton, once.

DEATH CALLS ORANGE RESIDENT

ORANGE. — Mrs. Lydia Fae Johnson, 50, died at St. Joseph's hospital late Monday from a rare blood infection, after being a patient at the hospital since Sunday morning, where she had an emergency operation. She had been ill since Thursday night.

Mrs. Johnson was born in Pioneer, Ohio, and lived for some time in Redlands, coming to Orange five years ago. She leaves her husband, J. R. Johnson, who has been an invalid for several years; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Masters of Portland, Ore., and a brother, W. P. Masters of Portland.

Funeral services will be held at the Shannon Funeral home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

FARMERS TO MEET AT COSTA MESA TOMORROW NIGHT

COSTA MESA.—Taxation and a new marketing system will be discussed at a farmers' rally in the Woman's clubhouse at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

M. B. Stearns, official in the State Grange association, will be in charge of the meeting.

MISSION SOCIETY PLAN MEETING AT MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY.—The Woman's Missionary society of the Nazarene church will hold their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Coleman, on Adams street, tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Robertson are leaving this week for a vacation at Barton Flats.

Miss Louise Husk is spending the week with relatives in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foley, Miss Emmaetta Hart and Oliver Howton of Long Beach were in San Diego yesterday.

Miss Amy Leith visited in Los Angeles recently.

Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Beno left yesterday for a vacation trip to Sequoia National park.

Miss Doris Hart is spending a week at the Christian Endeavor camp in the San Bernardino mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Robertson and daughters were in Los Angeles yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry McAdoo (Helen Shirey), who have lived in Midway City since their marriage two years ago, have given up their home here. Mrs. McAdoo and small son will be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Shirey in Santa Susanna for several months. Mr. McAdoo, who has been employed by a Santa Ana bank for several years, has resigned his position on account of illness, and will enter a sanitarium in San Fernando valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Campbell were in San Bernardino Tuesday attending the funeral of C. N. Abbey of Smeltzer.

OCEANVIEW CLUB HAS MEETING

OCEANVIEW.—More than 75 residents attended the Townsend club meeting held at the auditorium of the Oceanview Grammar school last night. Wesley T. Vandruff, president of the Oceanview organization, was in charge of the meeting. Robert Hosmer, president of the Huntington Beach club, was present and spoke to the group.

Entertainment numbers featured two vocal solos by Mrs. Amy Worthy, "To a Hilltop" and "Until;" two piano duets by Mrs. Worthy and Mrs. Marion Miller, "Love's Sweet Longing" and "Frolic of the Demons," and two readings by Miss Mary C. Adams.

HOLD SERVICES FOR RESIDENT OF SMELTZER

SMELTZER.—Funeral services were held yesterday in San Bernardino for C. N. Abbey, who died Sunday morning at a hospital in Orange. Mr. Abbey was born in Wisconsin and came to California many years ago. He lived in Victorville for 30 years. For the past year he lived with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Applebury. In addition he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Ruby Turner, of Victorville, two sons, Clarence of Victorville and Elvy of Palo Alto, and a granddaughter.

TUSTIN P.-T. A. GROUP PLANS YEAR'S PROGRAM

TUSTIN.—"Enriching Character Through Education" was the year's theme chosen by the program committee of the Tustin elementary P.-T. A. at a meeting last night in the home of Mrs. Orlan Householder, at 301 West First street.

Present at the meeting were J. M. Ray, principal of the school; Mrs. Robert Korff, P.-T. A. president, and Mrs. John Cozad, publicity chairman.

HUMANE WORK AT LAGUNA REPORTED

LAGUNA BEACH.—Mrs. Helen Carter Tiffany, president of the Humane society, presided over a meeting recently and gave a report on activities of the society. A total of 33 cats and 26 dogs have been picked up and cared for recently at the pound in Laguna canyon, Mrs. Tiffany said. Since the society has been alloted a larged working budget by the city council it has been possible to care for more strayed pets, she said.

SPELLING BEE IS PLANNED

GARDEN GROVE.—An old-fashioned "spelling bee" was planned for next Monday evening's meeting of the Garden Grove Townsend club when the group met this week at the Legion hall.

With approximately 75 in attendance, the group joined in singing old songs and were entertained with a piano duet by Mrs. A. Humphry and daughter, Elloise. Mrs. E. Groom was in charge of serving refreshments. Cakes remaining were sold with President Frank Kendall acting as auctioneer.

Farewell greetings were extended Mr. and Mrs. I. Huddle, active members of the club, who left yesterday for Mexico.

FETE COUPLE ON WEDDING DATE

GARDEN GROVE. — Observing their twentieth wedding anniversary, the Rev. and Mrs. Grover C. Ralston welcomed more than 100 friends at an informal reception Monday afternoon and evening. Assisting in receiving guests were their daughters, the Misses Phyllis and Elva Ralston, their son, Barclay Ralston, and the Misses Lois Reafsnyder and Fern Mark. The young women also presided at the punch bowl

An interesting feature of the reception was showing of a picture and newspaper clipping of the wedding in Milton, Trumble county, Kentucky.

Following a honeymoon Rev. and Mrs. Ralston started their life's work by conducting revival services in central Indiana and from there went to Inman, Kan., where he served as supply pastor. Other charges followed in Idaho, North Dakota and Wisconsin and in 1922 the family came to California. In 1923 he became pastor of the Newport Beach Methodist church. Later Rev. Ralston was called to Wilmington, then Yorba Linda and is now starting his fourth year as pastor of the Garden Grove First Methodist church.

ORANGE GROUP ATTENDS MEETING IN HOLLYWOOD

ORANGE. — Mrs. Anna Dilley, Mrs. Florence McCoy, Mrs. W. A. Settle, Mrs. Alvin Clifford and Mrs. C. E. Lush attended a meeting of the Southern California Presbytery held all day Monday in the Hollywood Presbyterian church.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Heikes and daughter, Cora, honored Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Neville and sons, Gerald, William and Lawrence of Port Townsend, Wash., with a dinner Monday.

Miss Elizabeth Lowry left yesterday for a visit with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fields, at Hughes Lake, Calif.

Fred Nielson, East Palmyra avenue, has received word that the condition of his sister, Mrs. Lloyd Judson of Santa Ana, is good, following an automobile accident near Dallas, Tex.

COUPLE CELEBRATE WEDDING DATE

GARDEN GROVE.—Celebrating their wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Harrison invited a group of friends from Garden Grove, where they formerly resided, to their present home at Peralta Heights for a duck dinner recently.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Allen and sons, Leroy, Archie, Joe and Ben; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Schnitger and son, Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Oertly, their daughter, Ellen, and sons, George and John; Miss Mabel Head and Donovan Schneider, all of Garden Grove, and Miss Hazel Harrison. After dinner the party visited and sang.

Louis Rates 3 to 1 Over Levinsky; 40,000 to See Battle Tonight

Santa Ana Journal
SPORTS
SANTA ANA, ORANGE COUNTY, CALIFORNIA. WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 7, 1935

Column Left!

By FRANK ROGERS

Joe Rodgers and his Huntington Beach Oilers got out their chopsticks at the municipal bowl last evening and gave Santa Ana fans and baseball players alike an indication of what may be expected of them in the coming fall championship series with our own Stars.

That peculiar style of hitting which so many have adopted with nice success did most of the damage to the locals. Using rather an unorthodox swing, several of the Oiler batsmen chop instead of hit the ball with the result that many times it bounces over the infielders' heads. And is always good for a berth on first base.

Several others besides the beach boys use the method, but we can't align with those who think it is great. If every player should become proficient in using this type of attack the game would soon become such a free-hitting affair that it would be a bore. One remedy would be to make the baselines a bit longer, but when that is done the game loses much of its speed and speed is the game's chief appeal.

The Stars haven't completely recovered from a knee-deep slump which caused them to lose four previous games and they should be a different team when they face the Oilers for the flag in September. Such things as taking a third strike with two down and two on isn't the best kind of baseball.

All of us are pulling for a Santa Ana victory and none, least of all Manager Tom Denney and his willing players, are sticking our heads ostrich-like into the sand at the knowledge that better ball must come from the local entry if a championship is to come here.

One thing in Santa Ana's favor is the fact that Louie Neva no longer seems to be the powerhouse he once was. Maybe it's just because some of the buildup has washed off, but he doesn't stand out from the crowd like he used too. He is still plenty potent, however. When Joe Rodgers reads this sometime this evening he probably will cut loose with a shout that will rattle this old Underwood's teeth.

It was only a few weeks ago that Joe was good enough to write in and predict that his gang was going to win the second half flag. Since he seems to be much better at prognostication than we are (we missed again last night) we suggest that he limber up the index finger on each hand and tell us in his own way who is going to win the championship series.

The local fans would be interested if Joe doesn't mind putting himself on a spot. As for this chronicler, we've got a large, brand new can of spot remover and we plan to go around eliminating all the spots we might feel tempted to put ourself on.

PICKED UP AT RANDOM IN SPORTS DEPARTMENT

We thought only over-plump playboys and near-rich prizefighters went around getting themselves sued for breach of promise suits, but it seems baseball players aren't exempt . . . Joe Vosmik, Cleveland's star gardener, was sued for $100,000 yesterday by one Miss Minnie Bahr . . . Britishers are after the American polo champions . . . a gang of England lads arrived in the U. S. the other day boasting of combinations of 30 and 31 goals . . . they'll enter the national open championship next month . . .

Someone told us yesterday that there were over 50 breeders and racers of race horses in Orange county . . . we're scouting for details . . . Helen Wills Moody told interviewers yesterday she has reached the peak of her old-time form again . . . and that makes authentic the greatest comeback of the decade . . . Queen Helen says she hasn't suffrom her back injury at all lately . . . few male sportsmen would have essayed the long comeback trail against great odds taken by the California champion.

BENZOR FIGHTS AT O.C.A.C.

Don Benzor, a game little Mexican from Anaheim, and Tomahawk Sanchez, popular Westminster lightweight, will provide plenty of action in the special event and semi-windup of the Orange County Athletic club's boxing program tomorrow night.

Benzor will fight Ray Coster of Compton and Sanchez will mix with Rudy Meyers, also of Compton, in bouts leading up to the main event between Lupe LeMon of Fullerton and Bud Holzhauer of Long Beach.

Fiddlin' Swimmer To Try Catalina Channel Again

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 7. (AP)—Backed by leading citizens, Paul Chotteau, the fiddling swimmer, who recently failed in an attempt to swim Santa Catalina channel, will make a second attempt early in September, he announced today.

Chotteau, a concert violinist, failed by eight miles in negotiating the approximately 36-mile journey from the island isthmus to the mainland here.

L. A. NINE RANKS HIGH

DENVER, Aug. 7. (AP)—Two of the Denver Post baseball tournament's unbeaten teams—the Los Angeles Californians and the White Elephants, Denver negro club—will tangle tonight.

The field will be cut to ten teams after this afternoon's games when the Eason Oilers of Enid, Okla., play Boulder, Colo., and United Fuel of Denver meets Golden, Colo. All four have lost one game with elimination the outcome of another setback.

NET FAVORITES OUSTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. (AP)—Three favorites were missing today as the Eastern grass courts tennis championships went into the quarterfinal round.

In the women's division, Eleanor Jane Sharp of Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. Penelope McBride of Short Hills, N. J., were out of the running. In the men's play, the veteran J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., seeded eighth, was stricken from the lists.

Carbon Copy of Dempsey and Firpo Fight Is Predicted

A round-by-round description of the Louis-Levinsky heavyweight fight in Chicago tonight can be heard over radio KMTR at 6:45. It will be a re-created version from special wire reports sent from ringside.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. (AP)—Their imaginations stirred by the prospect of a duplicate of the immortal Jack Dempsey-Luis Firpo thriller, upwards of 40,000 action-hungry fans will pack Comiskey park tonight to watch Joe Louis, brown bomber from Detroit, throw his devastating bombs at the kingfish, King Levinsky of Chicago.

The pre-battle setup was almost a carbon copy of the Dempsey-Firpo drama of flying fists and tumbling bodies except that no heavyweight championship prize will be at stake tonight. Louis, cool and deliberate, was the better strategist and boxer like the manassa mauler of old, but before him he had a man like Firpo, who didn't know what danger meant, a man who could smash his iron fists through a two-inch board, take a blow or two like it in return and then come back to give more.

Louis Is Favorite

Louis, winner of spectacular knockouts in 19 out of 23 professional fights, ruled the favorite at varying odds from two to three to one with plenty of takers from the pro-Levinskys. Even the pro-Levinsky had a suspicion that Louis packed too many bombs for the pride of Chicago's Maxwell street, but they wanted to find out—and all the boxing world wanted to know—if Louis could take what Levinsky has to hand out and still come back and give what he's got.

Both principals, great oratorical contrasts, were sure of victory in tonight's battle, which was billed for ten rounds. Louis, stolid and uncommunicative, said he would knock out Levinsky within five rounds, but Levinsky . . .

"This guy Louis has been meeting pushovers," snarled the kingfish. "And tonight, I'll prove it. He's never had a punch hit him like I've got. He's my cousin and they can hold the funeral any time. I'll hand him flowers. He won't give me none.' "

Both in 'Pink'

Nothing was wanted in the way of training. Both fighters reached condition through a rigorous schedule. There wasn't much of an advantage in the physiques, either, Louis weighing 196 to 198 for Levinsky, although the Negro had the advantage of reach by 2½ inches and was 21 years old, three years younger than the kingfish.

Gross gate receipts for tonight's production, promoted by Joe Foley of Chicago and Mike Jacobs of New York, are expected to reach $200,000—or more—the biggest fight in attendance and receipts since the Dempsey-Tunney spectacle at Soldier field eight years ago.

Ideal weather was in prospect. The fight was scheduled to start at 10 p. m., central daylight savings time. In event of postponement, it will be held tomorrow night.

THOMAS HEADS COACH VOTE

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. (AP)—Frank Thomas of Alabama today was the winner of the poll to select a coaching staff for the college all-star football squad, which clashes with the Chicago Bears in Soldier Field the night of August 29.

The Crimson Tide mentor had rolled up a point total of 1,908,968 and led his closest pursuer—Edward (Slip) Madigan of St. Mary's—by 101,477 points. Michigan State's Charlie Bachman had slumped to third place holding the position with 1,788,120 and Dr. C. W. Spears, Wisconsin, was fourth with 1,779,539.

HE'LL BUY BRAVES

George Preston Marshall (above), Washington, D. C., sportsman and financier, was reported interested in purchasing the Boston Braves club of the National Baseball league. (Associated Press photo.)

BRAVES WILL HAVE NEW OWNER

BOSTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—As soon as the bankers approve, George Preston Marshall, wealthy Washington laundryman, whose hobby apparently is collecting Indian-named sports enterprises, will head the corporation that will assume management of the financially harassed Boston Braves.

Marshall is now the owner of the Boston Redskins professional football club, an organization he nursed from infancy to affluence in less than three years.

He and Charles F. Adams, who was forced to add the Braves to his multiple sports and business interests a few days ago when Emil Fuchs retired from the club, have come to an agreement about the Braves' future. The passing of the club, however, will be delayed until authorization is voted by the bankers holding a note, said to be for about $200,000, for Braves loans made during Fuchs' 10-year regime.

An examination of the Braves' books revealed the surprising information that the club showed a $20,000 profit on July 1, despite its failures afield. Most of the black ink entries, however, were due to Babe Ruth's drawing powers.

ECKHARDT TOPS COAST HITTERS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7. (AP)—Batting at a spectacular .500 clip in last week's baseball series, Oscar (Ox) Eckhardt, husky Mission outfielder, gained seven percentage points on his nearest rival, and hoisted his season's average to a surprising .423, official statistics showed today.

Eckhardt went to bat 28 times last week, and hit safely 14 times. Following him in order, were Joe Di Maggio, Seals; Jolley, Stars; Rosenberg, Senators, and Mailho, Oaks.

REBOIN WILL COACH J. C. BACKFIELD

Trojan Star Appointed to Stock-room Job by Board of Education

Alvin Reboin, perhaps the most popular all-around athlete ever to come out of Santa Ana High school, will assist Coast Bill Cook with football at Santa Ana Junior college this fall.

The board of education, meeting in regular session last night, appointed Reboin as general utility man for its stock-room, with the understanding he will be free at 3 'clock daily to serve as Cook's backfield coach, a position held last fall by Blanchard Beatty, who resigned recently to accept a job as head grid coach at Oceanside High school.

Reboin carries the highest of recommendations from Howard Jones, under whom he played football for three years at U. S. C. He is skilled in fundamentals, and has all the qualifications to make a highly successful coach, Trojan coaches have remarked.

Al starred in football, basketball, track and baseball with the Saints. He enrolled at Santa Ana High school in 1927 as a sophomore from San Diego. "Tex" Oliver named him as the greatest quarterback during Oliver's athletic reign here from 1926 to 1931.

Reboin's appointment will lure many of his Orange county prep friends to junior college, it is believed.

ED LEWIS MAY WRESTLE HERE

The Old Master of the wrestling game—Ed (Strangler) Lewis—may headline Monday night's mat show at the Orange County Athletic club if present negotiations between Lewis and Promoter Sam Sampson go through.

Although he held the world title no less than five times and still is considered one of the three toughest men in the game, Lewis had hoped to retire from active wrestling and announced this several weeks ago, but intimate friends claim that the old master can't quit and would be open to an attractive offer by the local mat promoter.

The former champion hasn't appeared in this section for more than 20 years, having wrestled near the present site of the Orange county club, when Lou Daro first broke into the picture as the Southland's pioneer wrestling impresario.

Should Promoter Sampson be unable to land Lewis he will attempt to sign George Zaharias.

Perry Sails for N. Y.; But Helen Vinson Absent

LONDON, Aug. 7. (AP) — Fred Perry sailed for the United States aboard the Berengaria today but Helen Vinson, American actress, wasn't even at the boat train to see him off despite rumors they soon will be married in New York.

"I can't discuss the matter," Perry said.

Perry, world's greatest amateur tennis player, will begin defense of the American title he has won for the past two years at Forest Hills Aug. 29.

Fractious One Gets 18th Win

By ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dizzy Dean, having peeked over the fence to observe the feats of Wes Ferrell in the American league, whaled out a tenth-inning home run yesterday to give the Cards a 6-3 victory over Cincinnati.

The mighty sock added another pitching victory to the record of the fractious twirler, running his total to 18, highest in the National league. Ferrell leads the American league with 18.

With the score tied at 3-3 in the tenth, Bill Delancy got a lucky double, Charley Gebhardt was passed and Leo Durocher sacrificed. Dean stepped to the plate and the ball sailed into the left grandstand.

The Brooklyn Dodgers shaved a full game off the Giants' lead as Tom Zachary coaxed another victory from his aged arm. The Giants got 11 hits but only one run. The score was 3-1.

The victory, combined with the Chicago Cubs' 2-1 victory over Pittsburgh, cut the Giants' margin to three games. Roy Henshaw was on the mound for the Cubs, but it took a brace of errors on a freak play to turn the trick.

In the only American league game, the Washington Senators collected 14 hits to score their second straight victory over the Athletics, 11-2. The Senators scored ten runs in the first two innings, while square-rigged Bump Hadley held the visitors to seven safe blows.

END OF THE LINE FOR 'BIG TRAIN?'

The resignation of Walter Johnson, one of baseball's immortals, from the managership of the Cleveland Indians caused sports followers to wonder if the "Big Train" had completed his time as an active baseball man. All-Star Lineup Of Nightball Players Named

An all-star lineup of National Night Ball league players, picked by The Journal in cooperation with managers of the six-team loop, will be announced tomorrow.

Officials participating in the selections are Tom Denney of Santa Ana, George Lackaye of Westminster, Ben Gelker of Olive, Joe Rodgers of Huntington Beach, Vic Ruedy of Anaheim and W. E. Feistner of Long Beach.

First and second teams will be selected.

DUCKS PLASTER MISSIONS 4-3

By the Associated Press

Whenever the Portland Beavers play a ball game they manage to keep the biggest part of it confined to the infield. The Duck inner garden is known as the class of the league, but their case of acute infieldits seems to be contagious. Every team they meet tries to play them at their own game.

The Portland-Mission game last night was settled definitely around the bases, as the Ducks won, 4 to 3.

The Reds had a swell chance to nip the Ducks' win streak when they trapped two runners between bases simultaneously. The ball was thrown to about everyone but the umpire before Gil English was finally put out, but one man had scored. In the ninth the Reds had the tying run on third and the winning score on second. Eddie Joost grounded out and fleet-footed Wayne Osborne dashed madly to third only to find Clyde Beck still parked on the bag. Red Worthington flied out to end the affair.

Sacramento pulled a surprise as the Solons reached up from the depths of the cellar and slapped down the circuit-leading San Francisco Seals, 6 to 5, by overcoming a one-run lead in the last of the ninth. Joe Marty and Vince Monzo of the Seals were injured. Marty was hit on the head by a pitched ball and Monzo suffered a split finger. Both will be out for several days.

Big Jim Oglesby, Los Angeles first baseman, pounded out two homers, a double and two singles and drove in seven runs as the Angels plastered a 13 to 3 defeat on Seattle. Five Indian hurlers were used.

Herman Pillette, stellar Hollywood pitcher, kept all but two of the seven hits made off him confined to the infield as the Stars spoiled Oakland's homecoming by winning, 4 to 1.

Bites 'N' Bait

YELLOWTAIL, TUNA FISHING EXCELLENT

Yellowtail and tuna fishing has been at its peak on the "Rex," "San Antonio," "Sportfisher," "More Fun" and "Genoa" live-bait boats off San Diego the past week.

Seven hundred and forty-seven yellowtail and 220 tuna were caught off the "Rex" in seven days of fishing. Four hundred and seventy-one yellowtail and 155 tuna were hooked on the "San Antonio" during the same period. One hundred and eighty-five yellowtail were caught off the other three boats in one day.

Huntington Beach, 6; Santa Ana, 2.
Long Beach, 4; Anaheim, 0.
Olive, 8; Westminster, 4.

Seventeen strike-outs by Jack Dugan offset the 16 hits George Lackaye's Aviators gathered off the Grenadier mound star last night, while Ben Gelker's Olive machine took Westminster for a ride, 8-4, at Olive.

Players on both teams hit the apple freely, Jim McNabb enjoying a perfect night with a triple and four singles. Ed Daley and Floyd Montgomery, also of Westminster, garnered three hits; and petite Bruce Harnois of Olive batted four for five.

McNabb tripled, and Ray Hapes socked a homer into deep center for two Westminster runs in the first. Olive got one of them back in the first, and tallied five times in the second. Second-baseman "Baldy" Foltz blasted a homer into center for the Grenadiers in the sixth.

Merle Urbine, first baseman, represented Westminster for the final time. He joins Santa Ana's Stars for their game at Anaheim Friday night. Lackaye plans to use Catcher Ed Daley at first for the Aviators and Outfielder Hapes will work behind the log.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By the Associated Press

J. (DIZZY) DEAN, CARDINALS—Hit homer with two on in tenth to beat Reds after four innings brilliant relief pitching.

BOB SMITH AND WALLY BERGER, BRAVES—Smith shut out Phillies with three hits; Berger hit 23rd homer of season.

ROY HENSHAW, CUBS—Pitched brilliant ball, scored run needed to beat Pirates 2 to 1, cut game from Giants' lead.

TOM ZACHARY, DODGERS—Scattered 11 Giant hits cleverly to win 3 to 1.

Mindful of the great tumble taken by the Giants last year in September when they were tired, the management has booked virtually no exhibiton games for the club this season.

Mickey Cochrane and fellow-Tigers annoy Frankie Pytlak, demitasse Cleveland catcher, by calling him "Western Union"—the allusion being to his messenger-boy size.

Vito Tamulis, young Yankee pitcher, throws and bats baseballs left-handed, but plays billiards and ping-pong right-handed.

No stranger would have guessed that Long Beach, the Knox college of nightball, is the cellar aggregation of the National league if he had seen John Ireland's Admirals, behind the four-hit flinging of Wilbur Stinchfield, shut out Anaheim, 4-0, at Long Beach last night.

The cellarites bested the Anaheim favorites, 10-4, in the hitting department, and there was no comparison between the pitching of Al Bushman and Stinchfield. Stinchfield looked even better than he did in carrying Olive for 13 innings before losing, 4-3, two weeks ago.

Alex Clark, Union Oil player of the Santa Ana City league, made his debut at shortstop and third base for Anaheim. He went hitless, but fielded well.

RAY AND BOB SMITH BELT HOME RUNS

Jimmy Coates Yields 17 Hits; Split Finger Handicaps Star

Still lacking the spark that characterized their championship drive of the first half, Santa Ana's fading Stars were beaten by Huntington Beach's smart Oilers, 6-2, in National Night Ball here last night.

Now at their seasonal peak, Manager Joe Rodgers' 1934 champions from the beach community displayed a terrific punch at bat. They hammered the deliveries of Jimmy Coates for 17 hits while compiling from one to three safe blows in every inning, and increased their second-half winning streak to nine games.

Has Split Finger

Coates would have been more effective had it not been for a split finger on his right hand. The injury, not yet completely healed, prevented his putting the usual "stuff" on the ball.

Second-baseman "Doc" Smith's beautiful home run into left-center, following Catcher "Bomo" Koral's single to short in the third, saved Santa Ana from a white-washing at the hands of the great Louie Neva.

Bob Smith, Huntington Beach's first-sacker, also hit for the circuit in the sixth, but the bases were empty. His homer was a high-sailing fly which tipped the glove of LeRoy Sears as he attempted to make a running catch into deep right field.

Score in First

The Oilers didn't waste any time taking the lead. They pushed across a pair of runs in the first.

Schuchardt walked, and McKinley was safe on a bunt. Murray hit a scorching single to center, Rod Ballard making a lightning throw to catch Schuchardt at the plate on a very close decision. McKinley scored on a passed ball. Paul Neva singled to left to send Murray home.

Joe Rodgers' mighty outfit added another in the third on Schuchardt's triple and McKinley's single. Although hitting safely three times in the fourth and twice in the fifth, the Oilers did not score again until Smith's homer in the sixth. McKinley's double, a passed ball, and Murray's fly to right produced another counter in the seventh, and Rodgers singled, took second on a passed ball, scored on Lower's grounder past Tommy Young at third, in the eighth.

McKinley Leads Hitters

Santa Ana almost stirred up a rally in the sixth on singles by Ballard and Preble, but Young grounded to third to retire the side. . . . Denney, Preble and Smith each garnered two hits off Neva. . . . Louie fanned eight, Coates six. . . . McKinley, the league's best hitter and smartest third baseman, got four for five. . . . Smith, Lower, Thiery, L. Neva and Murray collected two bingles apiece. . . . The Stars trek to Anaheim Friday night. Huntington Beach plays at Westminster, and Olive at Long Beach in other games closing the fifth round.

SPIDER TRAPS, KILLS MOUSE

mouse's rear legs which were drawn straight out behind it. The tail was the next point for attack. This the spider pulled over the mouse's back, securing it with more web which was connected to the main web by the spider.

Trussing the front legs across the body the spider next started to hiost the mouse into its web. The rodent, still alive, occasionally made an effort to break its bonds.

Inexorably the spider went about the grim task. From struggling mouse to car frame it traveled—then back to cross over the victim's body and continue to the wheel of the car where another section of the main web was attached.

With another strand attached to the car wheel, the spider scuttled back toward its victim. It was on these return trips that watchers noted the mouse being lifted from the floor. After an hour of unceasing work the spider had hoisted the mouse into the very heart of its web, almost a foot from the floor.

Not pausing, after lifting the rodent, which was many times the size of the spider, the victor, like a gladiator of ancient Rome, moved in for the kill. Fastening itself to the throat of the mouse, the spider hung on until the rodent's life was extinct, after which the spider travelled round and round and over the body, wrapping it tighter in the web.

All through the unequal struggle a large crowd watched—but none cheered the victory. It was a battle for life, but the spectators felt that the mouse was in a game where the cards were stacked against it.

HEAD ON

PHILADELPHIA. — One head was better than six to catch a chicken thief suspect. A man passed Patrolman McCloskey carrying a bag. The patrolman heard a squawk. He investigated, found six chickens with their heads chopped off, one with the head still on, and squawkling about it.

ALL FOR ART

CHICAGO.—An art class here worked from live models, completely nude, but some of the students were much more nervous than the subjects, both male and female, who took it as "all in the day's work." The models were lions and other man-eating species of animals from the Lincoln Park zoo.

STALKER STALKED

SACRAMENTO. — Harold Flint heard a noise in the vicinity of his hen roost and crept out to trap the thief who had been stealing his chickens. Chester Boles, a neighbor who had been troubled similarly by thieves, heard the same noise and also investigated. He saw a figure in the shadows and fired a .22 calibre rifle. The bullet struck Flint, wounding him severely, but neither neighbor found a trace of the thief they both sought.

Feeling Well Today?

By DR. IAGO GALDSTON

TEETH AND THE PREGNANT WOMAN: I

When Goethe in "Faust" wishes to tell us that Marguerite is pregnant, he does so by saying that when she feeds, she feeds two. This description is even more truthful than poetic.

It long has been the custom to urge the pregnant woman to eat for two. This counsel is bad, except in so far as it concerns certain food items.

The pregnant woman should not eat double the quantity of food to which she is accustomed. But she must guard against being depleted of certain minerals by the demands made upon her by her unborn child.

Two Substances

Among the substances which the fetus abstracts from the mother's body are calcium and phosphorus.

Incidentally, it should be noted that the demand for calcium and phosphorus lasts beyond the pregnancy period into that of nursing. The formation of milk also taxes the mother's reserve of these two substances.

In order to guard against calcium and phosphorus starvation, the pregnant woman and the nursing mother must consume extra quantities of foods containing these minerals.

'Tooth For Child'

As to the chief symptoms and signs pointing to a lack of calcium and phosphorus, first comes the rapid development of dental caries. Not many years ago it was firmly believed that the mother had to lose "a tooth for a child."

Among certain classes it was not uncommon to find young women practically losing all of their teeth after the second or third pregnancy.

Lack Of Vitamins

Today we know that such "softening" of the teeth is due to calcium deficiency, and possibly, too, to a lack of vitamin D. Puffiness of the hands and face, tingling and numbness of the fingers and toes, painful muscle spasms and contractures, muscle weakness and exhaustion are other signs and symptoms of calcium deficiency.

The foods rich in calcium are principally milk and milk foods, and vegetables, notably lettuce. Eggs contain large amounts of phosphorus.

Talks to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Easy Come, Easy Go

"Now what'll you do? You've broken it."

"Oh, I'll ask my mother to buy me another. I break them all the time. This is my third."

Perhaps it was a toy or game or watch that the children were discussing. The same kind of talk may be heard among children—and their elders—a dozen times a day.

Buy Carelessly

For so many years the land has rejoiced in plenty that we have become accustomed to thinking in terms of easy replacement. We buy carelessly because we buy often; in the end we buy often because we buy carelessly. The children are trained to this point of view from infancy on. They are given cheap toys and many of them, are allowed to fling them about and break them and then are given new ones.

Loyalty to old and tried toy friends is gone. Betty's doll has lost an arm. "Don't cry, dear, you shall have another." Tommy's first watch was so cheap that it lasted just six months.

Then, parents, faced by money stringency, wonder why their children are so careless, why they cannot learn economy and wise buying.

Early Training

Waste is a sign of immaturity, and if the children are ever to grow up to the high culture entailed in true economy, they must from babyhood be trained to its beauty. For years we have all been wasting, and even have prided ourselves on our open-handed, short-sighted policy of buying and discarding as fast as possible. The nursery is the place to make the change.

Too many toys, toys that are badly made and easily broken, are a mistake. A few toys, loved and cared for, mended when broken, and not replaced when they have been carelessly used, are the best training we can give our children in practical economy.

DRUNK DRIVER SERVING TERM

W. A. Lewis, 53, of Long Beach, has been brought to the county jail to start serving a sentence of 100 days after being found guilty in the Huntington Beach justice court of drunk driving. Lewis was given an alternative of paying a fine of $200.

Huntington Beach police also booked two men charged with destroying signs posted along the highways. Each of the men, Charles Brown of Redondo Beach and Gerald Coomes of Costa Mesa, were sentenced to spend five days in the county jail by Justice of the Peace Chris P. Pann of Huntington Beach.

SUNDOWN STORIES

FLAT TIRE

By Mary Graham Bonner

"Oh dear," sighed Willy Nilly, "that is bad luck, and just when we were getting along so nicely."

"Yes, yes," said Christopher, who had flown off the back seat, "you have a flat tire all right."

Willy Nilly got out of the car and Mrs. Quacko Duck stood by watching him as he worked. She cocked her head on one side and then on the other, and looked as though she were very knowing.

He hadn't any spare tire so he had to patch the flat one, and it was a hot, dirty job. At last it was finished, and they walked along the road for a little distance, looking for some place where Willy Nilly could wash his hands.

"We saw so many ponds and streams before," said Mrs. Quacko. Don't it seem strange we can't find one now?"

I'll fly about and look for one," cawed Christopher. "Give me that little tin cup, Willy Nilly, and I'll bring some water back with me."

It wasn't long before Christopher came back, but most of the water had spilled out of the cup. Christopher had found it so hard to hold the cup while flying.

"Well, that will have to do," said Willy Nilly, after a few moments.

Once more they were off, and they drove on and on until Christopher cawed:

"I see the magician's yellow house. We're almost there."

In another few moments they had reached his front door.

"I see him in the window," quacked Mrs. Quacko. "No, I don't," she added a second later. "I see a cat."

$300,000 SCHOOLS PROJECT AUTHORIZED BY BOARD OF EDUCATION

MONEY FROM PWA SOUGHT FOR WORK

High School Completion and Auditorium for Lathrop Proposed

A $300,000 program which calls for completion of the Santa Ana Polytechnic High school project, erection of an auditorium at Julia Lathrop Junior high school and rehabilitation of the high school gymnasium was launched by the board of education last night with the adoption of a resolution authorizing appointment of a committee by Chairman George R. Wells to prepare an application for a grant from the federal Public Works administration for 45 per cent of the total cost. The resolution, offered by Rolla Hays and seconded by M. B. Youel, met with the unanimous approval of the board.

In a preliminary discussion of the project, J. E. Allison of the firm of Allison and Allison, Los Angeles architects, pointed out that it would be necessary for the city to put up the remainder of the money, and suggested that a bond issue be called for.

Under this plan, the city of Santa Ana will be asked to vote $165,000 in bonds, which would carry a four per cent rate of interest. At present, the school board is paying a 5 per cent rate of interest on $32,000, the remainer of a loan under the Greene bill, obtained for reconstructing the high school to make it quake proof. This amount could either be returned to the state or kept in reserve.

$436,435 Obligated

Mr. Allison said already there has been spent or obligated on the high school project a sum of $436,435. Various additions and alterations, including plans for the rehabilitation of the gymnasium, brought the figure to $40,000 more than the original $600,000 estimate. Completion of the high school project alone would necessitate an additional $200,000, he said.

It was asserted during the discussion last night that by adopting the present plan, the school district could save more than $100,000. The saving would be effected in the following manner: Under the Greene bill, the city was loaned $700,000, and of that amount $200,000 was turned back to the state. Under the new setup, the city would get a $300,000 building program for $165,000.

With blocks A and D already under construction at the high school, the new program will call for construction of three new buildings for class purposes, making a total of five buildings. The new junior high school auditorium is to cost about $60,000, it was estimated.

Markel Favors Plan

Jules Markel, in commenting on the program, said he felt the city of Santa Ana should avail itself of this opportunity to receive such a grant from the government.

"Speaking as a taxpayer," Mr. Markel said, "it seems to me that it would be foolish not to accept this proposition, especially when the government is offering us a sum of money nearly equal to the amount we must spend on the project. It is a wonderful opportunity for Santa Ana to do some extremely constructive work at comporatively little cost. For every dollar's worth of construction, we will be spending only 55 cents."

Block A in the high school project, which constitutes the administration building, is being erected at a cost of $376,061. Block D, the former junior college building, is being constructed at a cost of $60,444. The completed program will include construction of a classroom building for the housing of commercial, mathamatics, stenography and secretarial classes, to be built at a cost of $75,000. This building also will include classes in music, homemaking, sewing, cooking and a textile laboratory. A building to replace the present science building will cost $50,000 and the shop building will be erected at a cost of $75,000. Repairs to the gymnasium will necessitate the expenditure of $40,000.

Anaheim City Park Pool Result of Vision; There's A Carnival There Tonight

(This is the second of a series of articles having to do with the establishment and development of the Anaheim city park, one of the outstanding cultural and recreational institutions of Southern California. The series is intended to be informative to those cities which do not enjoy park facilities. Santa Ana is listed in the latter classification.)

By ROCH BRADSHAW

Because someone had a vision years ago of a city park at Anaheim that would serve as a center of community recreation, 200 youngsters, their families and friends tonight will enjoy a water carnival in the plunge at the park.

Surrounded by a beautiful setting, the boys and girls of Anaheim will stage a contest of fancy diving and swimming that will be a high point of the summer. Johnny Reilly, well known diver of the Los Angeles Athletic club, will be there and Henry Chapman, one of Anaheim's outstanding young divers, will also be a center of attraction.

Tonight's carnival, however, will represent only a part of the happiness which the plunge brings to Anaheim residents. The fun of water sport, learning to swim and to dive, is a daily affair at the pool, for it is filled daily with youngsters and grownups who enjoy its coolness during the season from May 1 to Oct. 1.

Used by Thousands

During July, according to Vic Ruedy, who is in charge, 12,645 persons swam in the clean blue water of the plunge, and felt better for it. And it isn't only Anaheim folk, either, who like to cool off in the pool. Swimmers come from Long Beach, Whittier, Santa Ana, Fullerton and other towns. Anaheim park, its plunge and other recreational facilities are known throughout the Southland.

For 10 years the pool has been there, offering welcome coolness and recreation to those who like to swim. It is a standard size pool, 50 by 150 feet in size, and nine feet deep where the water is bluest. Any boy or girl under 15 years of age, with a bathing suit and 10 cents, can dive in at 9 a. m. and stay all day if he likes. For a nickel more, those over 15 can bring their suits and do likewise. Those without suits need an extra dime to rent one.

Classes are Feature

But 10 or 15 cents is a small matter compared to the fun, for there appear to be no financial worries on the faces of the children and grownups. They get their money's worth and more. Besides, Mrs. Marian Clark conducts daily swimming lessons, as a State Emergency Relief association project, and the youngsters like it, for in July 2707 of them took her two-weeks course and received beginning swimmers' buttons. In addition to these there were 9938 adult swimmers.

The toddlers haven't been forgotten at Anaheim either, for close to the plunge is a wading pool where sun-tanned arms and legs and bodies flash in the sun as the 3 and 4-year-olds cool off and get accustomed to the water.

Tonight's water carnival will be open to all groups of Anaheim boys and girls, from beginners up to 18 years of age. But whether there is a carnival or not, the pool is never still, even at night, for it is open until 9 p. m. And that means that even the tired business man or woman has a chance to enjoy a cooling dip.

STRIKERS AT WORK AGAIN IN FRANCE

BREST, France, Aug. 7 (AP)—Under the guard of gendarmes, soldiers, and sailors, the employes of the naval arsenal went back to work today.

Many of them wore bandages on their heads and hands as a result of injuries suffered in two previous days of rioting in which one man was killed and about 50 in injured.

Reinforcements of gendarmes, both afoot and mounted, were added to the military guard. The fresh forces came to help patrol the streets through which 3000 demonstrators surged yesterday, stoning troops and police in protest against pay cuts under government economy decrees.

The government stood fast on its decree laws, officials announcing:

"The sacrifices asked of all categories of citizens by the government were imposed by the necessity for the country's financial recovery.

"That necessity remaining, the government stays resolved to pursue its task."

SAILORS LEAVE SHIP, PROTESTING WAGE CUTS

LA HAVRE, France, Aug. 7 (AP)—The crew of the steamship Champlain, scheduled to sail today for New York, left the ship, paraded, and had an indignation meeting this morning as a result of pay cuts.

Engineers of the French line yesterday refused to accept their salary checks showing 10 per cent reduction, and when the crew gathered at the dock today it decided on a protest.

SKIPPERS MAY BE FETED

An Orange county hospitality program for skippers and crews of entries in the international star boat races to be held at Newport Beach Aug. 23-28 was being discussed today as a result of action taken last night at a meeting of the publicity committee of the associated chambers of commerce in Wilson's cafe, Balboa.

Possibility of entertaining the visitors at a meeting of the associated chambers of commerce August 27 was considered. A luncheon meeting will be held at James cafe here Friday noon, at which committee representatives will discuss the proposal with George Kellogg, Yorba Linda, president of the associated body, and his advisory committee.

LOWER ELECTRICAL RATE FOR PACKING HOUSES SOUGHT

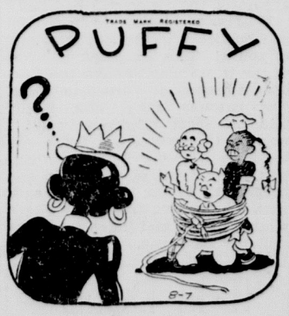

Hoping to work out a program whereby citrus packing houses can take advantage of lower electrical power rates, J. J. Deuel, head of the law and utilities department of the state farm bureau, is in Orange county today and tomorrow.

According to Roland D. Flaherty, local farm bureau secretary, packing house construction in the past has not lent itself to use of one large motor for power. Several smaller motors have been necessary.

However, all houses at present are operating under a system which removes a certain amount of this disadvantage and makes possible a lower rate than would be in effect if there were a meter for each motor. If one large motor were used, a still lower rate would be possible, Mr. Flaherty said. Mr. Deuel hopes a method can be worked out which would approximate the economy possible with use of only one motor, without working an injustice on the power companies.

WEBB DENIES CONFERENCE ON HANGING

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7. (AP) Attorney General U. S. Webb sees "no occasion" for a requested conference with an American Civil Liberties union committee concerning investigation of the Clyde Johnson lynching at Yreka last Saturday.

The attorney general, in a communication to the committee last night, said he would be glad to discuss the matter with a group of prominent San Francisco citizens whose names appeared on a telegram addressed to Gov. Frank F. Merriam asking him to urge the attorney general to take action.

Prominent Names

Among the names appearing on the telegram, the Civil Liberties union said, were Judge Warren K. Olney, Rabbi Irving F. Reichert, Bishop Edward L. Parsons, Dean Orrin K. MacMurray, Dean and Mrs. Guy Montgomery, and Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt.

The telegram asserted that responsibility for action "now falls upon the attorney general to initiate necessary legal proceedings."

Seeks Conference

Charles A. Hogan, chairman of the Northern California Civil Liberties union, then telegraphed Webb requesting the conference.

Webb replied he would be "greatly pleased" to confer with "Bishop Parsons, Judge Olney, Dean MacMurray, Rabbi Reichert, James K. Moffitt and others of like standing signing telegram to governor, if they desire such conference. See no occasion for conference with committee of Civil Liberties union."

WELFARE PUBLICITY DIRECTOR VISITS IN SANTA ANA

On a vacation to the west coast, Harold P. Levy, publicity director of the National Conference of Social Workers, stopped in Santa Ana yesterday afternoon to visit at The Journal office.

In addition to handling publicity and public relations for the conference, Mr. Levy is editor of The Conference Bulletin, a quarterly publication. Shortly after taking the position, Mr. Levy handled publicity for the annual convention of the organization held in April in Montreal and attended by more than 6,000 delegates. Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, Frances Perkins, and Harry A. Hopkins were among notables who attended.

Previous to his association with the conference of social workers, Mr. Levy was a reporter on the Seattle Times. After a short assignment in New York on publicity, theater and social work, Mr. Levy assumed his present duties with headquarters at Columbus, O.

He expects to return to Columbus early in September.

ANNOUNCE EXAMS FOR 2 U. S. JOBS

Open competitive examinations for the positions of chief explosive chemist and area medical director have been announced by the United States civil service commission, according to Frank Cannon, secretary of the civil service board of examiners here.

The position of explosive chemist pays a salary of $6500 a year and is at the Pittsburgh, Pa., experiment station operated by the bureau of mines. The area medical director's salary is also $5,600, the position being with the Indian service.

Additional information may be secured from Mr. Cannon at the postoffice.

CANARY CLINIC TO OFFER ADVICE FOR BIRD OWNERS

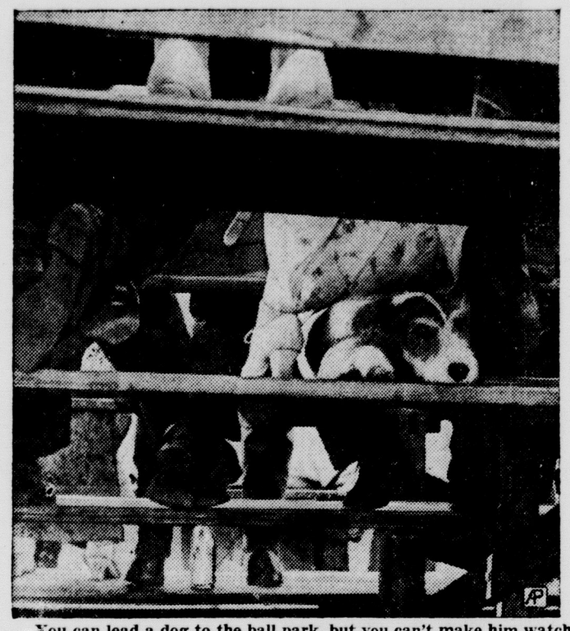

"Clinicking canaries" is the business on schedule tomorrow at Neal's Sporting Goods' store, with examination and advice on caged birds offered to owners.

Peter Pan, a 20-year-old golden voiced canary, will sing all day at the bird clinic. As gay and good a singer as a year-old bird, the canary is being brought to Santa Ana by Mrs. Idella Manisera, canary specialist.

Mrs. Manisera will sail Sept. 1 for Germany where she will enroll as a student at a canary hospital in the Black Forest of the Hartz Mountains. She plans to bring back a selection of fine, trained German Roller singers.

MOLINARI WILL CONDUCT EIGHT EVENTS AT BOWL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7. — Bernardino Molinari, world famous Italian conductor, will open the second half of Hollywood Bowl's season of summer concerts and remain for eight events. The renowned Italian has conducted 44 concerts in previous saesons. During these visits his popularity has increased many fold.

"Every night is a feature night in Hollywood Bowl this season," said Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, general chairman, commenting on the forthcoming concerts of the four remaining weeks of the season.

The features of the week which opens August 13 under Molinari's direction will include two noted soloists, a novel ballet and a special Italian night for which Molinari is celebrated.

Isidore Achron, pianist and for more than ten years co-artist on tour with Jascha Heifetz, will be the soloist Tuesday, August 13. Rose Bampton, singer, will be featured August 16.

Third of the four ballets for which Franchon and Marco were engaged to produce in the amphitheater is the Hollywood Ballet to be performed Thursday, August 15. Based on the life of a "Stand-in" girl, it brings Aida Broadbent as star.

BUDGET FOR SCHOOLS IS $759,059

The board of education last night adopted a $759,059 budget covering operating expenses for Santa Ana schools for the coming year. Last night was the time set for public hearing of protests on the budget, but no protests were made.

The budget as adopted is $3000 more than the amount actually spent during the year just closed. The increase was explained by the fact that salaries of teachers had been increased. Charles Webber, auditor for the board of education, said the total increase in teachers' salaries amounted only to 3.7 per cent of the total salaries of last year.

Education costs this year will be $118.66 per student. Last year the cost was $117.26, and the year before, $118.35.

Under the proposed expenditures for the coming year, the cost of operating the junior college is estimated at $115,993; the high school, $365,322, and the elementary schools, $277,744. These figures include costs of administration, instruction, library, operation of the plants, maintenance, auxiliary agencies, special charges and capital outlay.

Santa Anans Busy Selves in Summer by Taking Trips, Entertaining Guests

Going, Coming Plentiful In City

Arizonans and Easterners Visiting in Homes, Mountains Popular

More than a few Santa Anans are whiling away the summer by entertaining guests, taking trips, or both.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Bates and their son, Jack, and daughter, Reba, have left the mid-summer hot weather of Phoeniz, Ariz., to visit in Santa Ana for a week as guests of Miss Marian Duncan, 512 East Walnut street. They and their hostess plan to visit Balboa while they are here.

Mrs. C. H. Stanley and Miss Edith Stanley of West First street, are brushing the dust of foreign soils from their clothes this week, having just returned from an extended European trip on which they were accompanied by Mrs. Stanley's other daughter, Mrs. Clude Smallwood of Pleasanton. They especially enjoyed Paris, Switzerland, England and Scotland. Mrs. Stanley saw her old home in Westchester county, England, for the first time in 40 years.

Back From Idyllwild

Mrs. Edwin Holmes jr., and her children, Donny and Barbara, of Riverside drive, just returned home from a 10-days stay at the Bob Fernandez mountain home at Idyllwild. Mrs. Edward Walker of Santa Ana was their guest for several days.

Mrs. Walker, whose home is on East Chestnut street, is entertaining as a houseguest for several days Mrs. Elizabeth Knoblock of Pasadena, and she and her guest plan an excursion to the San Diego exposition this week.

Plan Park Visit

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Van Meter of 928 South Ross street are busying themselves this week preparing to leave next week for Sequoia National park to camp and vacation for the week.

Laguna Beach is beckoning to Mr. and Mrs. John Tessmann of 309 East Seventeenth street, who are to leave late this week for "Our Village" and occupy a cottage there for two weeks.

Leon A. Joiner, 628 North Birch street, has been playing host for the past two weeks and until Monday to his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earle W. Joiner, and their son, Phillip, who have returned to Sycamore, Ill., after sight seeing and visiting in the Southland.

GARDEN IS SCENE OF GAY PARTY OF MAYFLOWER CLUB

Mrs. C. W. Rowland's garden at her home, 336 West Nineteenth street, was the setting for a pleasant out-door meeting of the Mayflower club yesterday. Mrs. A. C. Wiebe shared hostess honors, and Mrs. Rowland's daughter, Louise, assisted in serving.

Needlework and cards occupied the time. The hostesses served ice box cake, wafers and coffee.

Mrs. L. A. Gowdy presided over a brief business session. The club will entertain husbands of the members at a picnic Friday in Irvine park. September 3, Mrs. W. A. Marymee will be hostess to the group at her home, 519 Lynwood.

Others present were Mesdames P. T. Isherwood, C. W. Copeland, S. F. Bernier, W. A. Marymee, A. Perkins, Laura Sanborn, Robert E. Smith, M. R. Ford, Edwin W. Cochems, J. W. Parkinson, A. T. Perkins and son, Roger and C. Shidler and daughter, Jacquelyn.

For a rainy night serve waffles covered with creamed dried beef. With hot chocolate or coffee a satisfying meal results. Fresh or canned fruit may also be served.

LAGUNA BEACH TO BE GARDEN CLUB MEETING PLACE

The Laguna Beach cottage of Mrs. F. H. Cloyes will be the setting for a meeting of the Garden Study club Friday, with a picnic luncheon as the opening feature of the day.

Mrs. Harry McCormick will discuss the planting and care of sweetpeas, Mrs. E. M. Redmond will relate the history of camellias, and members are to name new flowers in response to the usual roll call.

SPANISH PIONEERS HAVE ANNUAL PICNIC

A hundred Spanish pioneers with their families assembled at Irvine park Sunday for their annual reunion.

Presiding as master of ceremonies, Sol Gonzales introduced officers of the club including Marcus Foster, president; J. G. Cantu, vice president; N. D. Meyer, secretary, and Charles Carrillo and Rudus Nieblas of the board of directors, who spoke briefly.

Barbecued beef and coffee were served by the club to augment the basket lunches which the picnickers brought with them.

REUNIONS HELD SIMULTANEOUSLY

When a family separated by 2,000 miles couldn't bridge the distance for a reunion, they did the next best thing and held two reunions, simultaneously, one in Marshalltown, Ia., and one in Santa Ana.

Sunday, the four families living in California met at the Rock Tea garden of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mason of 1704 West Ninth street. The four Iowa families assembled in the city park at Marshalltown, Ia. at the same time.

Present at the Santa Ana gathering were Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Scott and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Batesole and family, Mr. and Mrs. B. Chupack and family, and Harry Milledge, all of Los Angeles, and the Masons of Santa Ana.

Bridge Club Luncheon Is Held

In the gardens of the home of Mrs. Walter Wright, 421 Orange avenue, members of the Harmony Bridge club sat down yesterday afternoon to luncheon and bridge.

The long tables, set beneath shade trees, were spread with a variety of summer delicacies. Beach umbrellas added color to the scene, and bright bowls of marigolds centered the table.

Prizes in the play of bridge were awarded to Mrs. Ray Snyder, Mrs. Carlyle Dennis, Mrs. Sam Jernigan, and the guest prize to Mrs. Aschel Hardy.

August 20 was set as the date of the next meeting, which is to be a covered-dish luncheon, at the home of Mrs. Joe Hershiser, 1815 North Flower street.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Wright were Mrs. Jernigan and Mrs. Dennis.

Guests of the afternoon were Miss Hazel Mullens of Eugene, Ore., a house guest of Mrs. Marge Schmidt; Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Courtney Chandler and Mrs. Harry Roberts.

Others present were Mmes. Harvey Dimmitt, John Bruns, Glen Lycan, George Shipe, Charles Ryan, Max Gowdy, Amanda Holmes, Bert Dawson, Sue Henry, Maude Swarthout, Imogene Maxwell, Osborne H. Holmes, Laura Kesemann, Nellie Young, Lloyd Folger, Ray Wyckoff, Don Edwards, Ray Snyder and Marge Schmidt.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

How old do you think young people should be before they can safely be allowed to drive the family car or have their own automobile?

Mrs. E. Alice Fewell: I guess it isn't best to have them drive too young. I should think 18 or 20 would be a safe age. Younger than that, they're apt to be irresponsible.

Mrs. F. Ray Fraser: That depends a whole lot on the child. If he or she is really responsible I should think it would be safe earlier. I'd say 17 or 18 would be the average age.

Mrs. Stanley Kurtz: If a young person is adept at driving and is responsible, I think it is safe to start driving earlier than if he or she has neither aptitude nor interest in driving. I started when I was 16, and haven't had any accidents.

Mrs. C. W. Rowland: I think they should be 16 at least before they are permitted to drive cars. My daughter drove when she was 14, but we did not permit her to take the car out alone.

Sierra Club's Jaunt Thrills Santa Ananne

After patiently waiting to be 11, and old enough to go with her father, Herbert Rankin, Santa Ana merchant, on one of the Sierra club's annual "high hikes," Patricia Rankin made the club trip this year as youngest person in the party—and to judge from accounts of thrills and adventures she's brought home this week, the experience was all she'd hoped for!

Mrs. Rankin and son, Danny, accompanied the Sierra clubbers as far as Big Meadow, where 7,600 feet above sea level they established a comfortable camp and spent two weeks while Mr. Rankin, Patricia and the others in their party made 125 miles of the 250-mile trip to which the majority of club members devoted an entire month.

Mr. Rankin and Patricia, who rode horseback, had a special interest in that Patricia was collecting specimens toward winning a Girl Scout wild flower badge. She stopped frequently, and assembled between 40 and 50 infrequently-obtained high-mountain wild flower specimens.

Most exciting experience of the trip was the crossing of a knife-edge portion of Glenn pass just after leaving beautiful Rae lakes. Patricia and her father rode across a trail some 60 feet long and only three feet wide. They could look down on either side 1000 and 500 feet. Here they were 12,300 feet above sea level.

Rae lake interested them as one of the two most beautiful spots in the Sierra range. Evenings brought large bonfires and impromptu entertainment by different members of the party.

On their return to Big Meadow, Mr. Rankin and Patricia joined the other members of their family and clambered to the top of Buck rock where an old forest ranger and his wife live in a little glass lookout house and spend their days searching the horizon for possible forest fire menaces. They visited with the couple, almost all of whose life has been spent in the mountains, and learned that the ranger's wife makes friends with and regularly feeds deer and other animals in the forest.

Scraps From a Gardener's Scrapbook

By IDA D. DEAKINS

Today I planted seeds of perennials in flats.

When they are an inch or so high, I'll transplant them, a few inches apart. Then, later, when they are sturdy plants, I'll put them in the garden for next spring and summer blooming.

For the background of my perennial border, I have planted verbascum olympicum, foliage large soft gray-green leaves, and spikes of clear lemon-yellow flowers resembling evening primroses. It grows from six to 10 feet tall and blooms for several months. There are other varieties of verbascum, relatives of mullein

Lavender digitalis (fox glove) will be next to the verbascum for yellow and lavender is a favorite combination. Perhaps if you like blue instead, you can try veronica spicata with its slim spikes of blue, or platycodon (Chinese bell flower). It comes in white, too, and is really a gorgeous flower. Near the blue I'll put some pink canterbury bells. I planted some trollius seeds, but it's a gamble whether I have even little plants next spring, for sometimes the seeds take months to germinate.

For white, all through my border white feverfew will blend the colors. It's an annual, but just comes up from seed, all over. Perhaps you have other favorites for your garden that you couldn't do without, but there is always something new to try, and it's such fun to have a new flower-face greet you in the morning!

* * *

"One robin doesn't make a spring," they say in the east. Here in the west, we paraphrase, "One rain doesn't make an irrigation." Remember, now and during the fall months, your garden needs frequent and thorough applications of water. Let it soak 'way down to the deep roots.

* * *

Do you remember your childhood dreams of fairyland? And how as the years went on, they grew dimmer and dimmer, until one day 'twas hard to recall even a part of the vision you had had?

What a thrill, then, to find yourself suddenly in the lost fairyland of youth! This was what it meant to me to wander through the Cardoza Gardens at Corona del Mar. The gardens' fairy, Mrs. Sloan, told me most interestingly all I wanted to know about ferns, rex begonias and her gorgeous fuchsias. The spirit of friendship and hospitality in her gardens is such that I hope you, too, will make a pilgrimage to and judge for yourself, my fairyland.

'If In Doubt'

A. N.: Yes, your being a new bride in your husband's home town means that his friends will call on you first, then you return their calls. But it is your problem to make yourself liked, by being unaffected, happy and sympathetic in your attitude.

"Plain Dumb" Should Go Out After Her Man If She Expects to Get What She Wants

By MARY STODDARD

"Standing back" from the one and only man who has ever made your heart go pitty-pat may be sweet and old-fashioned. But these are modern times and, if you continue to "just stand," you're apt to find that you make an excellent trellis for wall flowers.

Now that's the problem confronting a young lady today and she indeed has all of our sympathy.

To make a bad matter worse, THE young man is also shy and other girls run after him. Better step up in line, little girl, and give the bashful swain some encouragement or the bait from some other line will snare him.

Dear Miss Stoddard:

I have met my ideal man! I know he loves me and I love him. I have known him for nearly two years. We have been together a lot, but always in a crowd.

Then, too, we are both bashful and I have never encouraged him. So many girls run after him, but I just stand back and look on. He is very popular and a college graduate. He is about 30 and I am 27.

I have always dreamed of a man like him. He has tried to win me, but I have been dumb and kept distant. I have kept myself clean for a man like him and if I lose him I'll just die. I'd devote my life to making him happy.

When we were at dances he never asked me to dance. Maybe I was too distant. I just can't give that come-hither look.

Then, too, all the girls hang around him. But I could always see adoration in his eyes for me.

I wrote him a letter, telling him he was a snob and wondering why he didn't dance with me, especially as he was going away soon. I know it was a cruel letter. I have hurt him several times because I did not notice him. Then, I had to write that letter!

He telephoned to say good-bye before he left, but I was not home. I sent him a birthday card, but have not heard from him. What shall I do?

I want to write a letter and beg his pardon. Shall I tell him how much I think of him? We seem made for each other. We are alike and favor the same things.

Please give me your advice as I do so want to let him know that I love him. Sincerely,

"PLAIN DUMB."

Well, my girl, I don't know whether I dare to advise you to write any more letters or not as you might cut loose and go to the other extreme which would also be bad.

The printed word is more deadly than the spoken word because—there it is, down in black and white to warm your heart like the greeting of a friend or chill you like an enemy's glare.

If you do write, for goodness sake try to be sensible. Write a nice, newsy letter telling anything you think will be of interest to him. Certainly apologize for your rudeness and try to make him believe that it will not happen again. You can surely with propriety tell him how very much you miss him, but it would not be wise to declare your love for him in so many words.

If you write the nice sort of friendly, chummy letter I am sure you can, I am just as sure that he will answer. And then try, gradually, to undo some of your seeming rudeness through your correspondence.

And please think twice before you speak, and three times before you write anything you are apt to later regret.

The Cook's Own Corner

The Journal wants to give its readers at least one tasty tried-and-true recipe each day.

CHIFFONADE DRESSING
Mrs. W. L. Salisbury
South Ross Street.

Ingredients: 1½ teaspoons salt, 6 tablespoons oil, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon water, 1 hard-boiled egg, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced beet, 1 tablespoon minced green pepper, paprika, black pepper, Worcestershire sauce.

Directions: Rub bowl with a clove of garlic, put in the salt, cover with black pepper, then paprika; add the oil, vinegar and water, stir until thick. Add a dash of Worcestershire sauce. Add to this the hard-boiled egg, onion, beet, and green pepper.

SQUASH EN CASSEROLE
By Mrs. John Dunlap
Formerly of Santa Ana

Cut up squash and parboil until tender. Mix with 1 green bell pepper finely cut, 1 pimiento finely cut, 1 small onion, finely cut, ¼ pound diced cheese. Mix and put in buttered casserole dish.

Top with strips of cheese and bake for ½ hour in moderate oven.

ESTELLA DANIELS SOCIETY TO MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

The second of a group of summer picnic meetings will be held tomorrow night in Jack Fisher park when Estella Daniels' missionary society members assemble for a pot-luck supper at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis, whose son is a medical missionary in China, will be guest speakers. Miss Ruth Crosby is in charge of the program, and Miss Stella Groff is making arrangements for the supper.

Society business was concluded at the quarterly meeting of the executive board held last night at the home of Mrs. Hawley, 514 South Broadway.

Assignments of sewing to mission schools were made, and Mrs. Leon Lauderbach was appointed chairman of a prayer circle which will be held for 15 minutes preceding each monthly meeting.

A pot-luck supper was served in the Hawley gardens to members and their husbands. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Redford, Mrs. Stanton Eyerly, Mrs. A. L. Eels, Miss Ruth Crosby, Mrs. George Riley, Mrs. Agnes Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, Miss Louise Friedly and Mr. and Mrs. Hawley.

SEDGWICK W. R. C. JOINS LAGUNA FOR BIRTHDAY PARTY

Sedgwick Women's Relief Corps members en masse said "happy birthday" to Laguna Relief Corps yesterday when they celebrated the sister corps' eighth year at a pot-luck luncheon and program.

Talks were given by past presidents of the Laguna corps. Mrs. Elizabeth McLeod, who was the oldest attendant, was presented a cake in token of her 91 years.

Those who went from Santa Ana were Mmes. Roy W. Beall, McLeod, Kate Johnston, Cora Adams, Viola Fipps, Laura Gulick, Lena Hewitt, Della Miller, Fred State, Anna Scott, Helena Buner, Nannie Myers, George M. Ray, M. Omer Short, Robert S. Thompson, C. F. Millen, Opha Coalson and Miss Elizabeth Millen.

August 14 will be the regular meeting date of the Sedgwick corps in the K. of P. hall. Luncheon will be served at noon with sewing in the morning and the business meeting at 2 o'clock.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS HAVE AFTERNOON PARTY AT PLETKE'S

Miss Marian Pletke at 314 Halladay street was hostess to members of Job's Daughters at a singing and bridge party yesterday afternoon.

Prizes in the play went to Eupha Neer and Jeanette Hollingsworth. Gay zinnias had been used for decorations, and the hostess served refreshments.

Present were Mary Crowe, Mildred Pearson, Eupha Neer, Esther Bell Christian, Virginia Stuart, Helen Myers, Jeanette Hollingsworth, Charlotte McCausland, Marian Pletke, Mrs. Leslie Pearson and Mrs. Louis J. Pletke.

Santa Anan, Bride Leave For Chino

Mr. and Mrs. George K. Winklepleck (Virginia Wills), who were quietly married yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock by Justice of the Peace Kenneth E. Morrison, left Santa Ana yesterday for Chino, where Mr. Winklepleck is a rancher, and they will make their home.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Mills of San Francisco, wore a pretty white sports frock and a white hat. Her husband, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Winklepleck of Santa Ana Gardens, received his schooling in Santa Ana and Orange before going to Chino.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

KMTR will carry wire reports on the Joe Louis-King Levinsky fight. The broadcast, to be dramatized by Frank Bull, the station's ace sports announcer, is to start at 7 o'clock. But it wouldn't be a bad idea to tune in a little early just in case. Frank has a knack of making broadcasts of this type sound like an eye witness account of the real thing. The crowd noises are dubbed in from recordings. Phonograph records are used now almost exclusively for all sound effects.

Baritone Thomas

John Charles Thomas' (KFI-NBC, 5 o'clock) singing and friendly manner of speaking makes radio fare par excellence. But we don't believe the style of show given him is correct.

In the first place John Charles certainly doesn't need a buildup. His voice and rating are known to all who appreciate good singing.

So all this chatter by his "neighbors" is a waste of time. Time that could bring us more of the famous baritone's songs. It is Thomas we're dialing for. So why not cut out all this story background?

His pleasant way of telling about the song he is to sing, and then the way he sings it, puts the program in the "distinctive" class.

In other words all that is needed is an informal song recital pattern and nothing else.

Burns and Allen didn't get off for New York after all. Retakes on their movie delayed the trip. Again they broadcast from the west, KHJ, 6 o'clock.

If they don't get away after tonight's show, their "farewell" programs from the west will rival Harry Lauder's "farewell" tours.

GAY POTTERY USED AT BRIDGE PARTY GIVEN BY TWO

Bright-hued pottery used in serving the luncheon added color to the garden of the Frederick Elliott home at 2110 North Ross street yesterday when Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Henry Williams shared hostess honors at a contract bridge party.

After luncheon the card tables were arranged for play. Mrs. Ella LaPierre, mother of Mrs. Elliott, assisted in hostess preparations. Mrs. Charles S. Givens won high score award, and table prizes were also given in bridge.

Six tables were in play.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Irregular price movements prevailed on the stock exchange today. Profit taking hampered some sections, while others were helped along by investment buying and short covering. New highs for the year were made by a few selected issues. The closing tone was irregular. Sales approximated 1,350,000 shares.

30,000 'Gimme' Democrats Hear Girl's Smiling 'No'

Madeline Pugh wanted to be a secretary and now she says "No" to democratic job-seekers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—When "deserving democrats" come to town with the "gimmes" they walk unsuspectingly into one of the most effective smiles in Washington.

It beams from the very large gray eyes and the flashing white teeth of Madeline Pugh, a Des Moines, Ia., girl, who is famous because she has said "No" to some 30,000 people since June, 1933.

She presides over the reception room at the democratic national committee headquarters. A small boy from Arizona or a severe-faced woman from Terre Haute arrives and demands a job, "or else." Miss Pugh turns her smile on them and in two minutes they have subsided gratefully into a chair along the wall with some 20 to 50 others waiting.

From then on the battle is all to Miss Pugh. The job-seekers may come back day after day, for one month

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS—By pretending that she was married to Rex Moore, the airman, Laurie Moore has got herself into a mess. Rex, supposed to be lost in the Pacific, has returned. To hold his job with Mark Albery, plane manufacturer, he and Laurie must keep up the pretense. The worst part is that Rex rubs Laurie the wrong way consistently.

Chapter Nine

WORSE TANGLE

Laurie had made a kind of a cult for Rex, as she had made for Mark Albery, in her hero-worshipping way. She had heard so much about him from Belle Mason, who adored him and would have been his wife, if she had lived.

So much that she had seemed to know him. His gaiety, his kindness. His bursts of temper, that were over in a moment; his restlessness when he was bound to earth.

As she had told him a few minutes ago, when she thought of how she and Glad had been saved and has prospered because of him, because of her at first innocent masquerade, she had told herself that, if he knew, he would forgive her. He wouldn't mind. But, then, of course, she had thought he was dead, and she had felt the dead would understand.

How he must have changed! She remembered that he had been blind, and her warm heart went out to him for a moment. And that he had probably saved her life the other day.

But why must he force her into this odious position? Surely, he could have found a way out? The logical part of her mind saw the justice of it. But his last words had stung her on the raw—"When the time comes to pay, you don't like it, and you squeal!"

He was a selfish brute and he despised her. And she hated him for coming back and upsetting her life. She would pay and she wouldn't squeal. But she would punish him, all the same, for those insulting words.

In the morning Laurie could almost have thought the episode had been a dream. She had slept surprisingly soundly after the shock and stir of the encounter.

There was no word from Rex Moore. By the post only a scrawl from Gladys, saying that their tour was being shortened, and she would probably be back in London in the middle of May. A "rest" was indicated. She hoped to goodness it wouldn't be for long.

Laurie waited, feeling a fool, a few minutes beyond her time before she left for the office, which was within an easy walk. But nothing happened.

So she set forth and did her day's work as usual, following the routine with a kind of intelligently vacant mind. Nobody said anything to her. Evidently the news of Rex Moore's return had not filtered through from above.

Mark Albery did not send for her. She had half expected that he would.

When she got home, Rex Moore met her on the pavement.

"I found out when you left the office," he said. "I've been with Albery nearly all day. Everything went off first-rate. May I come up with you, Mrs. Moore?"

His grim chuckle had the usual effect on her.

"I suppose so," she said coldly. "Are you determined to go on rubbing it in?"

He did not answer until they were up in her sitting-room. Then he looked at her, smiling in his unexpected way, but without mockery. Then she saw that his face could be nice. He wore a new grey flannel suit, and his hair had been cut and trimmed to conventional smoothness.

"No, I won't do that," he said casually. "Why not treat it like a joke, which it really is?"

"I don't see it in that light at all, Mr. Moore."

"I should try to. Do you mind if I smoke?" He did not sit down without being asked.

She stood facing him, and suddenly felt foolish. She pointed to a chair, and sat down herself, refusing a cigaret.

"So you went to work as usual today?" he asked abruptly.

"Of course."

"You intend to go on with it?"

"What do you mean?" She stared in amazement.

"Only that Albery asked me. I said I didn't know. Perhaps it would look better if you didn't."

Laurie's eyes blazed.

"Nothing would induce me to give up my work. I would rather tell the truth. You haven't any right to ask me to."

"I won't, then. Don't hit the ceiling! It's only that he is offering me a very decent salary, and it might seem queer."

"I don't care what it seems." She saw amusement in his face and at once controlled herself. She mustn't get excited. "They didn't know at the office that you had come back," she said.

"Albery is going to announce it tomorrow. He's been very decent; he's used his influence so that the papers won't make any fuss. I've agreed to give one interview only, and that'll be the end. I never would stand publicity. Well, Albery has solved our domestic problem. He's lending us a furnished flat quite near his own, and he's asked us to dinner tomorrow."

Laurie was speechless for a moment; then she stammered out:

"You don't mean we've got to live in the same house?"

She looked so much like an abashed child that he could not help laughing.

"Naturally. Don't husbands and wives—usually?"

"I never thought of that."

"You never seem to think of anything. But don't worry, we shall manage. It will give us a chance to stage quarrels and find out we hate each other. I don't suppose you want me to come and live here?"

"Oh, no, no! There's no room. Besides—oh, no! But it's my home. I can't give it up. It's my sister's home. I made it for her."

"You can shut it up for the time being. I'll pay the rent. By the way, your sister—how does she stand in this little game?"

Laurie's face crimsoned once more with shame.

"Glad thinks I was married to you. You see, she was unconscious, at death's door, when it happened. I couldn't face her afterwards. So I let her think it, like everybody else."

"You must have an ingenious brain," he commented.

"It wasn't difficult. She believes everything I say. I only had to tell her I'd met you near our home in the country, and we were married secretly after poor Belle died. Glad was away for six months, working on an orange plantation, before we went to Sydney. She didn't know Belle; she went to a different school. She's five years younger than I."

He looked at her straight in the eyes. For the first time her antagonism faltered.

"I guess you've been through a bit," he said quietly. "Well, that's all right. You'll send the good news to your sister right away." His smile was mocking again.

"She will be coming to London soon."

"Then she can stay with us and watch our cat and dog life. Better to have a witness on your side, so it can be all my fault."

"You're perfectly disgusting!" Laurie exclaimed furiously. "I don't believe I'll do it after all!"

"It's fixed. You can't get out of it now. By the way, you know my first name. What's yours?"

"Laurie."

"It suits you. It's uncommon—like you. I say, must you look so glum? Can't you see the funny side of it?" There was quite a pleased expression on his face, a hint of the eager, happy, laughing young man of the photograph. "I haven't said I'm grateful to you, but I am. Albery is all over me. You see, I've got to make money. It's the main thing for me to make lots of money."

He stopped abruptly, as if he had forgotten himself in a moment of rare relaxation.

"I'll make it easy for you," he added. "And I'll get off now, and come back in the morning. Albery sent a message. You're not to go back to the office anyhow for a few days, until we're settled in. Can you move tomorrow?"

"I suppose so," she said ungraciously.

"Right! Good-night, then!"

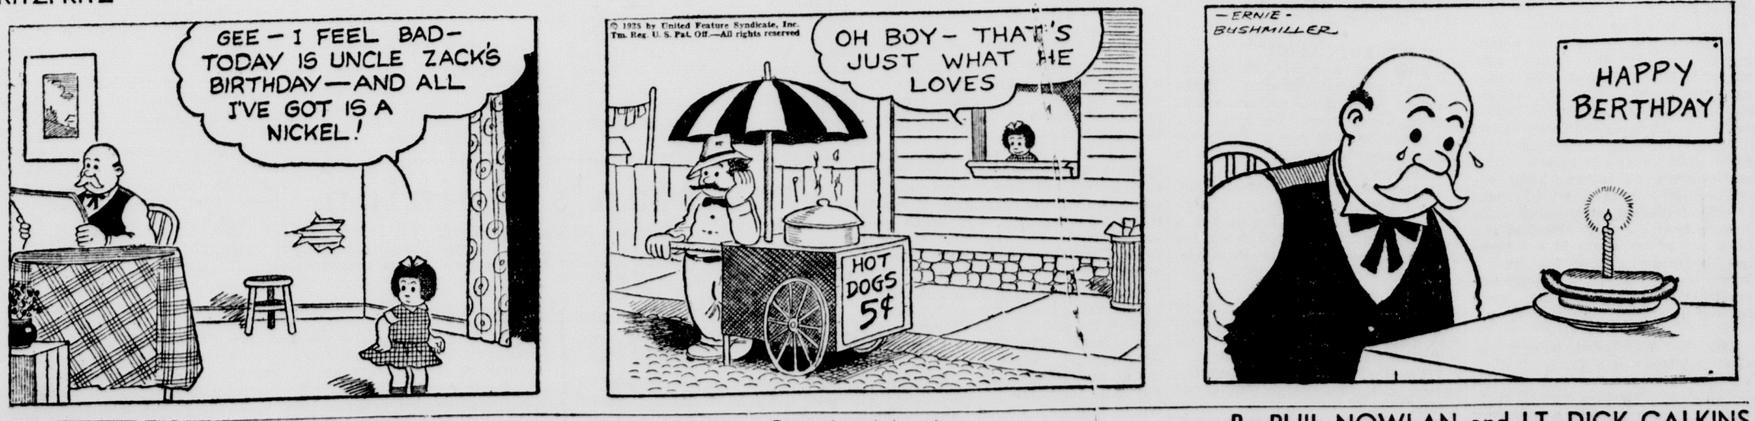

Laurie was confused when he held out his hand, but she put hers in it. A tingling went through her that made her pull it hastily away.

Her "good-night" was a whisper, as she fought for self-control.

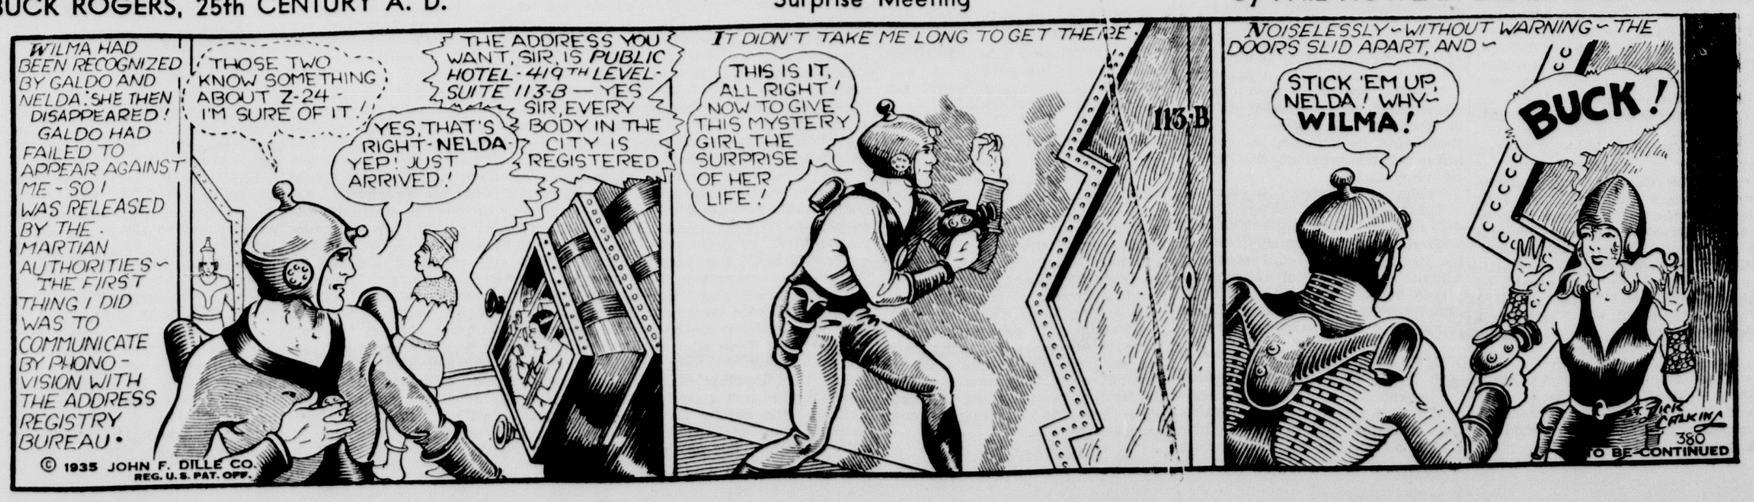

(Copyright, 1935, Coralie Stanton)

Tomorrow, Laurie has a talk with Mark Albery.

VOL. 1, NO. 84 Wednesday, August 7, 1935

THE UNINTENTIONAL VIOLATOR

APPEARING in a recent issue of the American Magazine is an article under the caption, "Mile a Minute Man," by a former governor of New Jersey. The author deals with the various errors which attend automobile driving. He takes the careful and the cautious, the kind of a driver you and I think we are, and then makes scientific deductions which prove we are guilty of safety violations, and invoke risks of which we are unconscious because of our unfamiliarity with the speed we are traveling, how far the distance before a stop is possible, and other technical errors the average driver makes.

One point he briefly but strikingly presents. Most of us come within the criticism. The author says we throw the most priceless possessions we have in the world in the car—meaning the wife and children—and then accept all the hazards of the road.

In this connection many of us who haven't the slightest intention of violating a traffic law do so because our thought is absorbed on some other matter. This is not a justification for the violation, but in spite of all our good intentions and regard for the safety of others as well as ourself and family, the legal fracture occurs.

When it comes to a conscientious regard for safe driving we know of no one who has greater respect for this attitude and rule than our friend, Wesley Taylor, who now finds himself unwittingly facing a violation for failure to make a boulevard stop. This unintentional commitment on Mr. Taylor's part, and the fact that he has been active in law obedience, is no reflection on his sincerity. In fact it only emphasizes greater need for our observance of the traffic rules he advocates to the end that driving become safe and pleasant.

UPSETTING THE ORANGE CART

ALWAYS we have with us the chiselers. And always the chiselers find something to chisel on. Right now in Orange county we hear of new movements to foment discord among the citrus growers. Something new, something different—another new deal. The various growers' associations, organized to their present state of efficiency, always are a source of envy to the watering mouths of those who would profit by what has been accomplished and by the frequent misunderstandings and petty jealousies that bob up in the best of regulated business institutions.

For many years now the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, the Mutual Orange Distributors and the American Fruit Growers' association have successfully marketed the citrus crop of the Southland. Newcomers with untried schemes will have to produce a modern miracle to convince the experienced grower that he can do better by quitting his old organization, if the present set-up continues to function along fair and progressive lines. If it doesn't there is always a way to remedy the situation without upsetting the cart that has hauled our oranges to a profitable market.

SONS OF THE PATRIOTS

MAYBE it is something to be disturbed about and maybe it isn't, but it is at least interesting to learn that the American communist party proudly sent word to Moscow the other day that it has an active membership of 30,000. This does not include affiliates or sympathizers. Its native American membership has increased from 10 per cent to 40 per cent since 1930.

The Moscow organization, outlining the agenda for the coming year, has directed its American membership to work toward confiscation of church properties, "to aid the unemployed." Also, according to the dispatches, the American communist party has been directed by the communist international to continue boring from inside the workers' unions, toward a coalition of all labor forces.

"We have assimilated the revolutionary traditions of 1776," says American Secretary General Earl Browder. "We are heirs of the revolutionary movements from which the United States originated."

All of which must be of supreme comfort to the spirits of George Washington, the continental army and the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

CALL THE POLICE

FROM time to time the Hearst and Chandler press in Los Angeles print narratives which nauseate us.

Such an article appeared in the Times Magazine last Sunday. It was entitled "I Found Independence on the Dole." Of course, it was anonymous.

It was offered as the true story of a chiseler who drew a welfare department check although she was earning a living on the side. It had the ring, however, of being based on someone's distorted imagination, rather than facts. It sounded like subtle propaganda against welfare work.

If the story is a fake, The Times had no business printing it. If it is true, The Times is neglecting its duty unless it has turned the grafter over to police.

HAPPIER WORLD AHEAD

A LOS ANGELES doctor claims he has discovered the secret of suspended animation. He froze a monkey, kept it on ice for five days, and then revived it.

Since he can do this with monkeys he should be able to do it with humans. There's not much difference.

Imagine what a boon this discovery will be.

If your mother-in-law is coming for a visit—if a bill collector is on your heels—if you have a hangover—if a depression comes along—simply say to the wife:

"Put me in the suspended animation box, dearie, and do not disturb until trouble disappears.

Keep up the good work, doctor.

Rex Beach is re-visiting Alaska for the first time since he beglamored that frozen chunk of the world in his novels more than 20 years ago. It was there he found inspiration for such themes as The Barrier, The Spoilers, The Silver Horde and others.

The jaunt will be a sentimental one in many ways. It was in Alaska he met the former Edith Crater, to whom he has been so happily married. She had gone there on a quixotic barn-storming expedition from boarding-school with her sister Aileen, who is now the equally happy Mrs. Fred Stone.

Beach acted as their protector and guide in showing them the raw life of the mining camps, the wicked dance halls, Lady Lous and Shooting Dan McGrews. Since he was there the old Nome went up in flames and a new city is rising out of the ashes. Civilization erased the primitive Beach knew.

More than almost any other writer, Beach changed the tempo of modern fiction. He swung it from the sickliness of fainting heroines and lace-cuffed courtiers into the red-blooded currents. He gave his heroes muscle, brawn, and big hearts. And dropped lances and shields for knuckles and socks.

Whats' the matter with this picture? A special assistant in charge of publicity for the United States attorney general, in reality a press agent, receives a salary of $10,000 a year. J. Edgar Hoover, who as chief of the department of justice has so expertly rounded up the crooks, is paid $9000 a year.

Among New York's sudden evanishments is the rotisserie. These open kitchened pleasantries were confined mostly to Sixth avenue and upper Broadway and wafted the fragrance of broilers turning on spits in the windows. Much of the trade was for feasts of chorus girls in their hotel rooms after the show. They could send to the rotisserie and get a roasted chicken with fried potatoes and plentiful slices of bread for 80 cents. And how many remember the Castle Cave on Sixth avenue that served half shell oysters in hot sand? It was Marc Klaw's favorite haunt.

* * *

The sudden flood of detective magazines, featuring "inside facts" has become a phenomenon of the publishing field. More than a dozen, weekly, semi-weekly and even tabloids, have burgeoned since first of the year. And they have produced a new type of lurid 2-cents-a-word writer who works with all the terrific speed of the old time reporter for the beat. Each issue plays up the serialization of the life of a big shot mobsman, such as Dillinger and Pretty Boy Floyd.

* * *

In the meantime the higher class magazines, or "slicks," are in a quandry over the dearth of more accomplished mystery and detective story fictioneer. In the past few years death has removed Louis Joseph Vance, Edgar Wallace, LeRoy Scott, Arthur Somers Roche and Earl Derr Biggers. These were master craftsmen who entertained such distinguished disciples of the exciting plot as Woodrow Wilson, Chief Justice Hughes and others of that ilk. The field is now left almost clear to four English writers, E. Phillips Oppenheim, Agatha Christie, Sydney Horler and Valentine Williams.

* * *

A mystery writer with an amazing following in the "pulps" was Clarence Herbert New. For years he concocted a monthly article captioned "Free Lancing in Diplomacy." Altogether more than 3,000,000 words of imaginative efforts that uncannily called diplomatic shots in international intrigue. New was a wheel chair invalid with an amputated arm from a bear clawing. He had not been out of his room in a Brooklyn boarding house for years. When he died at 70, fourteen unpublished stories of his were banked up in one magazine shop.

Mrs. Ted Woodyard, wife of the alert publisher of a flock of West Virginia weeklies, is one of the nation's most tireless women motorists. If she spends a sleepless night, she is off before dawn for a spin, often driving the 500 miles from her Park avenue apartment to their home in Spencer, W. Va. Then sleeps the clock around. She has driven to Florida and Canada many times and to the coast in less than seven days. Always solo!

Ryley Cooper's colored butler, attending a gabbing group of writers in Cooper's pent house studio, heard the talk turn suddenly to ghosts and grew fidgety as the terror of the tales increased. So much so he shook visibly. When the crowd left, Cooper ventured: "You are not afraid of ghosts are you?" He replied: "Not zactly feerd, but I gits kinda hard to hold."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—The department of agriculture is saying no more than it has to about it, but the United States will have to import wheat next year. Reason is the black rust damage to spring wheat. It will reduce the crop far more than expected.

Next Friday (August 9) at 3 o'clock, the official crop estimate will be made. It will show the official estimate of July 1 to have been out of line by about 140 million bushels.

Most of this loss is in the spring wheat states of North Dakota and Minnesota, where first early rains brought green growth to the young wheat and high hope to the farmers.

After what happened last year, a bumper crop was hoped for and expected.

But now the black rust spore is killing off as much as 90 per cent of the crop on some farms.

Result will be a harvest of about 590 million bushels, far below domestic requirements. Farmers in Kansas and Nebraska will profit, for the shortage is already booming the price.

But growers of rusted wheat are as bad off as last year — possibly worse.

Last year the drought was in full blast in May, and congress appropriated relief money June 19. No money will come from the federal till this year, partly because the government is not on the spot as it was before.

It has an "out" this time. It is not responsible for crop reduction. Spring wheat farmers were allowed to sow 100 per cent of their land. They will have to feed their rusted stubble to the stock and try again next year.

UTILITY EDUCATION

THERE was a day when Broadway's wise-cracking Eddie Dowling was a bit naive about holding companies. To him they did not look any more dangerous than a piece of stage property in his theater.

In fact, during the 1932 election, when he was collecting campaign funds for Roosevelt, Eddie got a contribution for $65,000 from the Floyd L. Carlisle utility interests, one of the biggest holding companies in the country.

Eddie took the check back to headquarters with great glee and was grief-stricken when Roosevelt told him he could not accept it.

"It's the biggest single contribution of the campaign," mourned Eddie.

Two years and more passed. Eddie Dowling was invited to speak at a farewell dinner given to Charles F. Norris, vice president of the Carlisle utility companies. He was supposed to be a humorist.

But the preceding speakers devoted their time to bitter attacks on Roosevelt. And when Dowling's time came, he launched an equally bitter attack against his utility company hosts.

"Thieves! Ingrates!" he stormed.

That ended the evening. But it did not end Dowling's relations with holding companies. He and his brother ran a coal company which supplied fuel to power plants in and around New York. Shortly after the dinner, Eddie found his coal orders cancelled.

WHITE HOUSE CLOSURE

AS THE congressional session wears on, some of the president's best friends are comparing the situation within the White House as similar to that during the latter days of Woodrow Wilson when Joe Tumulty, his secretary, and William Gibbs McAdoo, his son-in-law and secretary of the treasury, ran the administration.

At that time few people could reach the president, and few policies could be initiated without going through either Tumulty or McAdoo.

The White House today, according to many, is being influenced chiefly by Marvin McIntyre, presidential secretary, and by young Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury.

This comparison is exaggerated, but there is enough truth in it to bear watching. It is a fact with every president, but especially with one precluded for physical reasons from much activity, that those nearest him sooner or later dominate his policies, mold his views.

Young Henry Morgenthau's attitude is that of one at the throne of the mighty. He is a worshipper rather than a dominator.

* * *

DOMINATOR McINTYRE

ON THE other hand, Marvin McIntyre, in a very subtle way, is a definite dominator.

To meet Mac no one would think this. On the surface he is the height of ingratiating suavity and desire-to-please. His voice drips nectar and sweet spirits of ambrosia.

But underneath this he has violent likes and dislikes; has no compunctions about adroitly putting across his views despite those of the president. This he does by delaying letters and memoranda with which he disagrees, by refusing appointments to administration members whom he dislikes.

More recently Mac has evolved a system of harassing visitors whom he does not like but whom he has to admit to the inner sanctum anyway.

This he does by constantly opening the president's door and edging up to Roosevelt's desk while the visitor is talking. Sometimes he interrupts, sometimes he just stands and listens. Under these conditions confidential conversations are impossible.

One of these acts occurred during a recent conference between Roosevelt and Frank Walsh, dynamic head of the New York power authority. Walsh was discussing an extremely confidential matter, but McIntyre constantly flitted in and out; hovered about the presidential desk.

Finally Walsh, with mock hospitality, remarked:

"Mr. President, if Mr. McIntyre insists on taking part in our conversation I wish you would ask him to draw up a chair."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

DESPITE the strong remonstrances of friends, Donald R. Richberg is going ahead with his plan to write a book giving his version of the rise and fall of the blue eagle. Richberg says his opus will be different from that of his one-time friend and chief, General Hugh Johnson. He says: "I propose telling the NRA story without indulging in personalities." ... Here is an amusing sidelight on the senate lobby committee's investigation of telegrams opposing the holding company bill. All such wires bore the telegraphers' code word—"hoots."

And so, mighty ashamed, to home.

Remarkable Remarks

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Political Battles and the One Next Year

The political campaign of next year, whose faint skirmishes are already beginning, will be unique in one respect at least. Never before has a party in power exposed so many vulnerable points for attack and never before has an opposing party been so poorly prepared to wage battle. Such a situation usually results in a stalemate, much sound and fury, clashing of gears and tooting of horns, smoke-screens and gas attacks. But the clearing breeze shows few changes in relative positions.

The democratic party continually mumbles its Jeffersonian principles, but swings further than ever from its patron saint. "That government governs best which governs least," the very soul of Jefferson's democracy, has been sadly distorted and mangled by his conglomerate descendants. The sage of Monticello would claim no kinship with those who babble his precepts today.

But the dispossessed and famished republicans seem unable to strike at the gaping flaws in the enemy's line. Old platitudes, hoary with tradition, fall as duds. They watch for repercussions, but nothing happens. They invoke the gentle spirit of Lincoln, forgetting that Lincoln met the crises of his day, with a definite program. He saw the goal before him and steered his course innocent of leaders and policies. None has risen big enough to arouse enthusiasm, and without political enthusiasm no party can ride to power. Negative attitudes are not enough. The attacks must be definite, positive, overpowering. Their man of destiny has not yet appeared. His sudden arrival during the next few months may well make political history. Bryan's prophetic appearance in 1896 was dramatic and overwhelming. For two decades he left his impress on the trend of events and remained the idol of enthusiastic millions. If some magnetic prophet should descend on republican councils, with a clear-cut clarion call, in the role of avenger, leader and spokesman, rallying to determined attack the discontented elements of every stripe, astonishing results would ensue. Political miracles have happened before in the heat of party battle.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. (Skinny) SKIRVIN

Political day at a service club meeting, Senator Edwards and Assemblymen Craig and Utt appear. W. B. Williams, remotely associated with the three guardsmen, and accused of having at divers times association with politicians, presides and introduces. The marvel of the event is that Williams still persists in his friendships. What time wasn't devoted to Wes. Taylor's traffic violation was used to recognize Orange county's state officials.

Dr. Hatch cuts down my mileage, picks me up on North Sycamore street and inquires whither to, as if I should know. Under the circumstances, and with nothing more definite than that, he says: "Get out at The Journal office."

* * *

Energetic and ambitious stengrapher impatiently waiting for the boss to appear with a key so the front door can be unlocked. Aforesaid steno finds out upon arrival at the office that the key with which she expected to unlock the front door is safe at home. That fellow who went by humming: "Where Was I?" got an ugly response from two flashing eyes.

* * *

If my friends do not discontinue the custom of calling to me when negotiating an intersection, some of them will be advertised in The Journal's "Port of Missing Men."

* * *

Si. Fluor registers at a service club with which he has had an affiliation for a long time. Si. has been fighting a case of high blood pressure and making progress. That's because he is a fighter. Not in the sense that he is looking for a scrap, but it's an inherent inclination of his part to make his own way.

* * *

My friend Wes. Taylor is getting some good natured razzing because through an inadvertence momentary amnesia, or some other diverting influence, he ran through a boulevard stop. The individual error in no sense removes the value of his campaign to comply with motor traffic laws and regulations. If we were all perfect there would be no highway accidents, or violations.

* * *

Louis Koth, of Orange, does more wire pulling than a politician. He is the manager of the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co. That pun needs ice.

* * *

Discontinuance of the use of gold cards will make no difference to those drivers who did not hold one. While it was specifically stated no permission was given to violate traffic regulations, there still remained an atmosphere of preference. They weren't any good for a bridge game anyway.

Three cornered controversy with Bob Brown, son Matt, and Noah Berry (not the one who came out of the Ark), corner Fifth and Main. Criticism filed against the senior Brown for failure to keep an appointment with Jamie Morrison, Scotch weaver at Chandler's. When the accusation of forgetfulness was made it was promptly substantiated by son Matt who said: "You tellin' me? He even forgets my pay day." I was rescued just in the nick of time by Tom McFadden, who lifts me off my feet and carries me into the Orange County Title Co. Gee, that fellow McFadden is strong.

Someone called my attention to a piece of art work in one of the daily newspapers which appeared with Wiley Post and Mrs. Post. I knew it was Wiley because of the patch over his eye, suspected it was Mrs. Post due to previous publicity that she was to accompany her husband on a trip to Moscow, but if that was Will Rogers with 'em there is something wrong with my ocular technique.

Periodically articles appear either in newspapers or scientific journals relative to archeological expeditions searching for the Ark, which according to the Hebrew tradition, rested on Mt. Ararat in Asia Minor. The fact that the summit of Mt. Ararat has finally been conquered, in 1876 by Sir James Bryce, and later by other explorers, who report no trace of the Ark, rather discourages other expeditions from attempting to unearth Noah's home. Whether a legend or otherwise, it will always be a debatable subject. I was planning on a little expedition of my own with Ben Tarver, Albert Perkins and a few other Orange county hikers as associates, but this late information is rather discouraging. However, Orange county has Saddle Back. That's high enough for me.
